The [Daily] Commercial

The growi[ng crops, in] this region as in others, are ve[ry promising. Whe]at, rye, grass and corn are [illegible] well, far better than has been [illegible] years. The wheat, too, is ri[pening with] astonishing rapidity, many fields already assuming the rich, golden hue that betokens a speedy ripeness for the harvest. The grain is plump and large. The fruit crop also promises to be large. Farmers have cause to be both hopeful and thankful, as they look over the fields waving with the luxuriant growth of grains and grasses.

OIL FIRE IN CLEVELAND.—Monday afternoon, while the contents of a tank was being discharged from cars on the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, at the Central Way crossing, into some vessels on a platform belonging to Backus & Williams, and Alexander, Schofield & Co., a passing locomotive set fire to the oil, and the whole platform was almost instantly in flames. In a few minutes the vessels gave way, allowing their contents to pour down the hill like a river of fire, submerging and destroying everything in the way. The refinery of Backus & Williams, built at great expense to secure a fire-proof structure, located near the platform, the first object to which the "wreathing flames" made way, was entirely destroyed, entailing a loss of $56,000 upon the firm. The adjoining buildings, belonging to this firm, consisting of a treating house, still house, two large warehouses, and a cooper shop, are included in the estimate. It is said not less than 4,000 barrels of refined oil were in both of the warehouses. The train, consisting of three cars, loaded with 2,400 gallons of oil, was included in the general devastation, along with a considerable portion of the railway track and the telegraph wires on each side of the road. The loss of the company will probably be about $5,000. Alexander, Schofield & Co., and Dunham & Smith, oil refiners, lost by the fire respectively $5,000 and $600—making a total of $66,600.

The Greensburg Herald nominates Edgar Cowan, ex-Senator from Pennsylvania, and a resident of that place, for the position of Minister to Hayti recently vacated by the death of the former Minister. The Herald says:

"He has peculiar qualifications for that position, beyond the mere formality of pocketing the salary. The book-knowledge, which he claims to possess, aided by the long cherished opinions he has entertained of the colored race, would enable him in a very short time to decide whether that people are sufficiently advanced in the scale of being, to be classed as human, and if so, whether they are so far removed from a condition of 'barbarism,' as to fit them to conduct the affairs of civil Government, in such a manner as to be creditable to us, to continue longer any sort of Diplomatic intercourse with them; or be justified in the expense of keeping there a duly recognized Minister and Representative. Those who know his views, and remember his speeches in 1860, will certainly all agree with us, that he is just the man for the place."

Forebodings of Evil.

The Army and Navy Journal believes, in all sincerity and with much foreboding, that evil will come to us some day in the future from this mixing up of military and civil government, and from Mr. Stanbery's illogical, superfluous, unrepublican, and dangerous theory that both those forms of authority are existing coordinately in the South. It accustoms our people to the fatal notion that martial law can tranquilly divide supreme authority with civil law in times of peace—a notion which renders despotism an easy step to take in any republic, for it is the very foundation-theory of all arbitrary governments. The only safe theory is, that an abnormal, warlike condition of affairs exists at the South, authorizing the military authority to exist there solely because civil authority does not exist (except subordinately and by sufferance) at all.

CROP CORRESPONDENCE.

Washington County, Pa.

Special Correspondence of Pittsburgh Commercial.

WASHINGTON COUNTY, PA., July 1, 1867.

Harvest is now upon us, and as all persons are deeply interested in the present crop, and as I am thoroughly acquainted, having traveled over the Eastern portion of our county, and also that part lying north of the "National Road," and being a farmer, I presume I am qualified to give an opinion of the crops in general. Some fields of wheat are now ready for the sickle, and it will all be ripe and harvested before the 10th inst., and with a few exceptions will be one of the finest crops that has been harvested in this county for a number of years. Some varieties have suffered seriously from insects in the smooth chaff, whilst the bearded varieties have escaped, as they almost invariably do. Barley and rye are a good average—the former is harvested. Oats are short, owing to the unfavorable spring, but stand well on the ground, and I presume will be a fair crop. Hay, very good. Corn, rather small for the season. Potatoes, promising, and will be good if not destroyed by the bug, which usually attacks them about the 20th of July.

Old Washington county has a world wide reputation for her staple commodity, wool, and I presume her reputation can and will be sustained in this clip, now in hands, as I have noticed the farmers and wool growers have this season been contesting, as it were, for the championship, in the choice of stock, preparing and putting up of their wools—which I think never came so near perfection in any previous clip, as the present one. The only thing we want now is to have buyers, (not kid gloved) that can and will discriminate. Hence, there will be an inducement for a continuation in the course of improvement in that line, and also in the keeping and management of sheep, in order to produce the finest and most useful, as well as the required fibre. I do hope the manufacturers will endeavor, to purchase our wools themselves, or send an agent that can and will judge our wools by the fibre and merits and not as it is done by the majority of buyers, by the weight and size of fleece, alone, for on that scale, some of the best grades are condemned. We want men of experience either in the manufacture or growing of the article. I presume there are many farmers, though they are "hewers of wood and drawers of water," that are much better qualified to purchase wool than a majority of buyers, who are now engaged in the purchase of wools.

I find a pretty general feeling prevails here with the farmers and growers, that they will hold their wools at from 60 to 65c for their best grades. I have heard of some sales at 55c, some at 59c, and one at 60c. One of my neighbors has a standing bid on his clip of 57c. I have also heard of some sales as low as 50c. I presume they are inferior grades, small lots, and sold by persons who are compelled to sell at any price that may be offered. As farmers are not all millionaires, neither have they any associations or Unions—every man acting for himself, offers an inducement for "sharks to follow the ship." More anon, from your friend. MORTIMER.

SURRATT'S TRIAL.

Twentieth Day's Proceedings.

Examination of Dr. McMillan Concluded.

More of Surratt's Revelations.

ST. MARIE'S TESTIMONY.

Surratt Escapes from Washington the Night of the Assassination.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Judge Fisher was presiding, though still unwell.

Dr. McMillan was recalled. Mr. Bradley called the attention of the Court to some insulting remarks of the witness yesterday to Mr. Merrick.

The Court: While he could have no provocation or justification for the remark of the witness, reminded counsel that witness had never been cross-examined as in this case, and admonished counsel to adhere more closely to the rules of practice, and avoid side remarks or directing any remarks to the jury.

Mr. McMillan testified: Surratt told him he was in Montreal the first day of the week of the assassination, and was summoned to Washington by Booth by letter; Surratt also told me that a day or two after the assassination he was at St. Albans, and the train being late, strolled through the town and went to a hotel for breakfast; while sitting at the table he saw a great deal of excitement among those sitting at it; asked his neighbor what all the excitement was about, and he said, "Don't you know President Lincoln has been assassinated?" the prisoner said the story is too good to be true; the man showed him a paper, and prisoner saw his own name mentioned: that was the last of his breakfast; he left the table, and at that moment a man came in and said Surratt's handkerchief had been found; prisoner then felt for his handkerchief, and found he had lost it, and made himself scarce; he went to Canada and stopped at the house of Mr. Porterfield. Confederate agent, until a detective searched for him, and admonished him to leave; Surratt described to me how to get away from Mr. Porterfield; two carriages were brought to the house, and Surratt was placed in one, and one man dressed like him in the other, and were driven in different ways: Surratt was driven to the foot of the Island, where he crossed the St. Lawrence and was piloted by a boy to a small town called St. Albans; he said he staid there two weeks in the house of a priest named Chas. Bouche; he told me that one day the priest being absent, he was lying on a sofa in the priest's bedroom, and between the room and sitting-room was a place for a stove, and under the stove was a trap door, and a female servant being desirous of seeing who the priest was concealing, put her head above the trap door, and Surratt frightened her off; a rumor got out that the priest was keeping a woman in his room; the priest told Surratt he could conceal him no longer; Surratt went to Montreal, and was concealed by the priest La Pierre in a dark room, and never left it except late at night to take a stroll; on shipboard the prisoner's conduct and appearance was gentlemanly, but he was very nervous when any one would come behind him; on the evening before the landing at Londonderry, between eleven and twelve o'clock, I was called out and passed the prisoner standing on what I called the after square; he was all dressed, ready to go ashore; he had previously asked my advice about landing, and I would give him no advice; he said he would go on to Liverpool; I was therefore surprised to see an apparent intention of landing at Londonderry; after some conversation I told him he had been telling me a good deal, and I said I experienced doubts of his traveling under his correct name; I asked him to give me his right name; he looked around and whispered in my ear, "my name is Surratt;" he went ashore twenty-five or thirty minutes afterwards; before going ashore prisoner asked for a drink, and I awoke the bar-keeper and we all three took a drink; it is the custom in England and on board ships for the bar-keeper to help a customer to a drink asked for and not place the decanter before him, but in this case the bar-keeper put the bottle up, and Surratt poured out and drank a half tumbler of raw brandy; I then treated, and the bar-keeper treated, and Surratt at all times took the same quantity; the prisoner then landed, and the ship went on to Liverpool.

The examination of McMillan was concluded. He was cross-examined at length by Mr. Merrick; I do not remember of any date Surratt gave me except on two occasions, when he said he was in Richmond the week before it fell, and in Washington the day of the assassination; he merely told me the abduction plan had failed; there are no circumstances by which I could fix the time when the plan of abduction failed: Surratt told me he was in Richmond, and was in Montreal the week of the assassination, and he received a letter from Booth while in Montreal directing him to return to Washington, that it had been necessary to change their plan, and act promptly; he did not tell me what change of plan the letter referred to; he left immediately afterwards; he said he reached Elmira on Thursday before the assassination; he said he telegraphed from Elmira to Booth, in New York, to know if he (Booth) had gone to Washington; he did not say whether he went further than Elmira or not; all I remember his saying about St. Albans was, he was there a few days after the assassination; the prisoner told me all I have related, but never told me anything connecting him with the incidents of the assassination in Washington, nor did he ever say he was in Washington the day of the assassination; witness was summoned here by the marshal of Chicago; was not summoned before Committee; I went to the House of Representatives one day with a friend and was introduced to Geo. F. Boutwell, who asked me to testify before the Judiciary Committee, and I consented; I have said if any one was entitled to the reward for Surratt's arrest, I was entitled to it; I have stated that in this city I never intended to claim the reward; never told any one Surratt was in Elmira the morning of April 14, and did not know of the assassination until the morning after; I never said Surratt first learned of the assassination in New York, and immediately went to Canada; never said Surratt had no connection with the assassination, and I only regarded him as a political offender, and would therefore aid him; I never stated the plan to abduct the President was an individual enterprise of Booth; I never said anything contrary to what I have said on this stand; I have said the prisoner and Booth had planned the abduction, and expended $10,000.

After recess Paymaster Barton, of the United States steamer Swatara, testified to facts relative to the voyage of Surratt from Egypt to America.

Capt. Wm. M. Wermerskirch testified concerning the arrest of Mrs. Surratt and Payne.

Marshal Gooding, of the District of Columbia, testified to the receipt of prisoner in custody when landed at the Navy Yard.

James Walker, colored porter at the Pennsylvania Hotel, identified Surratt as a frequent visitor to Atzerott.

Benj. St. Marie testified: In 1866 was in the Papal States, at Valetra, about forty miles from Rome; was a soldier of the Papal army, and in the ninth company; they are called the Papal Zouaves. The dress worn by Surratt was exhibited; that is the dress worn by the Zouaves; I saw the prisoner there; I knew him; I think it was on the 14th or 15th of June, 1866; I saw prisoner again; he came to my quarters with two Zouaves named Dibart and Labon, and we four took a walk; we took the road to Naples; had some conversation at that time, and I was occasionally speaking to my companions in French, and Surratt in English; I asked him how he got out from Washington; he said he got out the night of the assassination, and said he was so disguised no one could recognize him as an Englishman; I then went to Malta; did not see him, but afterwards saw him on the Swatara. No cross-examination.

Judge Fisher said as it was a very oppressive day, it would be well to take a recess now.

Mr. Bradley said the defense would like to know when the prosecution would close their testimony, that they might know what to do with the witnesses for the defense.

Mr. Carrington said they would probably close to-morrow, but it was not certain.

AN INTERESTING DESCRIPTION.

The Emperor's Speech in Full.

Reception of the Czar at St. Petersburg.

Redistribution of Seats in Parliament.

The Award of Prizes.

PARIS, July 1.—There was a very grand ceremony at the distribution of Exhibition prizes to-day. One hundred and seventy thousand persons, including representatives of every nation, were present. In front of the throne were the members of the diplomatic corps dressed in uniform. The galleries were filled. In the east end of the building was placed an orchestra of twelve hundred musicians, an organ and musician bells. The roof of the buildings were bright with streamers of every color. The nave was surrounded with an ample parterre of natural flowers, growing in a garden. The galleries were hung with flags, showing the nations which contributed to the Exhibition. In the center on pedestals there were shown the best specimens of ten groups, in which all articles were divided. The French Minister of State was present with the legislative chambers, seated near the throne. The Lord Mayor of London and several Aldermen were present. Napoleon's throne was guarded by a detachment of guards.

At ten minutes before two in the afternoon the roll of drums announced the approach of the Imperial cortege, preceded by squadrons of dragoons and cent gardes and trumpeters. The Imperial party were conveyed in six carriages, each drawn by four horses. Royal outriders came on in advance of the carriage in which the Emperor was seated. This carriage was drawn by eight horses, and contained the Emperor, Empress, Prince Imperial, Prince Napoleon and one of his sons. There were thousands assembled around the exhibition building, and the approach of the royal party was loudly cheered.

The Sultan of Turkey was present with his cortege, heralded by three carriages containing Turkish officials of great distinction. His vehicle was drawn by eight horses, each led by servants in livery. All the carriages were literally covered with gold, having been brought in from the palace at Versailles, where they had lain since the time of Louis XIV. On the Sultan's right hand sat his nephew and heir to the throne. In front of his Majesty his son and second nephew. They received a warm welcome from the crowd. The Sultan saluted the people by passing his hand from his mouth to his feet.

The ladies attached to the French Court were dressed in magnificent costumes. The officers of Napoleon's household, in full uniform, entered the building and took places behind the throne. Next came Napoleon, having the Sultan on his right. The Empress Eugenie came next, followed by the Prince of Wales, Prince Imperial of France, Princess Royal of Prussia, Prince Humbert of Italy, Princess Mathilde, Prince Napoleon, Princess Clotilde, Duchess of Doste, the brother of the Tycoon, Prince Von Teck, and Duke of Cambridge.

Napoleon took his seat on the throne, in the center of the group, having the Sultan on his right and the Empress on the left. The Empress was dressed in a robe of white satin, trimmed with silver, and wore a heavy diamond necklace.

As the Imperial cortege entered the building, the orchestra with a full chorus gave Rossini's "Hymn to the Emperor," with accompaniments sent forth from cannon and joy bells. The effect was exceedingly thrilling. The music was magnificent. The Minister of State read to the Emperor the report of the juries on successful exhibitors and productions, and objects exhibited by them. At its conclusion, Napoleon rose from the throne, and in a loud, clear voice said:

Napoleon's Speech.

"GENTLEMEN: After an interval of twelve years, I come for the second time to distribute rewards to those who most distinguished themselves in those works which enrich nations, embellish life and soften manners. The poets of antiquity sing praises of the great games in which various nations assembled to contend with Greece for prizes in races and other sports. What would they say to-day were they present at these olympic games of the whole world, in which the nations of the earth contend by force of intellect alone, and seem to launch themselves forth simultaneously on an infinite career of progress towards an ideal which has been incessantly approached, without even being attained? From all parts of the earth have come the representatives of science, arts and industry, who have hastened to vie with each other, and we may say peoples and Kings have both come to do honor to the efforts of labor and crown them by their presence with ideas of conciliation and peace. Indeed, in these great assemblies, which appear to have no other objects than material interests, the moral sentiment always disengages itself from competition and intelligence and a sentiment of accord prevail, and the nations in drawing near learn to know and esteem each other. Hatreds are extinguished and the truth becomes more evident that the prosperity of each country contributes to the prosperity of all.

"The exhibition of 1867 may justly be termed universal, for it unites the elements of all ages. Side by side with the latest improvements in modern art appear the products of the remotest ages, so they represent at one and the same time the genius of all ages and nations. It is universal, for in addition to the marvels which luxury brings for the few, it displays also that demanded by the necessities of the many. The interests of the laboring classes never aroused more lively solicitude, their moral and material wants, and conditions of life. A cheap rate of living by the most productive combinations of association has been the object of patient inquiries and serious study. Thus all improvements march forward. If science, by turning matter to account, liberates labor, the cultivation of mind subdues vice, and prevails over vulgar passions and illiberal humanity. Let us congratulate ourselves, gentlemen, on having received among us a majority of the sovereigns and princes of Europe, and so many other distinguished visitors. Let us be proud of having shown France as she is—great, is prosperous and free. One must be destitute of all patriotic faith who doubts her greatness, and must close his eyes to evidence who denies her prosperity; he must misunderstand our institutions, tolerant even to license, not to behold in them liberty. Foreigners have been able to appreciate this. France, formerly disquieted, and casting her uneasiness beyond her frontiers, is laborious and calm always. Fertile in generous ideas, she is turning her genius to most diverse marvels, never allowing herself to be enervated by material enjoyment. Attentive minds will have divined, notwithstanding the developments of wealth and enticements towards prosperity, that the nation is always ready to vibrate as soon as a question of honor arises; but this noble susceptibility could not be a subject for alarm for the repose of the world. Let those who have lived a short time among us carry home just opinions of the country. I feel persuaded the sentiments of esteem we entertain towards foreign nations, and our sincere desire to live at peace, will be reciprocal.

"I thank the Imperial Commissioners, members of the jury and the different committees for their intelligent zeal in the accomplishment of their task, and I thank also by name the Prince Imperial, who, notwithstanding his tender age, I have been happy to associate in this great undertaking, of which he will retain the remembrance. I hope the Exhibition of 1867 will mark a new era of harmony and progress, assured that Providence blesses the efforts of all who like us desire to do good. I believe in the indefinitive triumph of the great principles of morality and justice, which, while satisfying all legitimate desires, are alone able to consolidate thrones, elevate nations and ennoble humanity." [Loud cheering.]

After the speech, the exhibitors who were to receive the grand prizes marched to the front of the throne, each group separately, the first being the fine arts. As each name was called, the recipient ascended the steps of the throne, bowing to the Emperor and Empress, and received from Napoleon's hand the gold medal. These were passed one by one to Napoleon by Marshal Valliant, until all the medals were given out. Many of the recipients were called up again, and received decorations of the Legion of Honor, the same ceremony being gone through with as in the case of delivering the medals. The gold medals only were distributed by the Emperor.

Altogether there will be 15,300 [illegible] expenses to 60,000 exhibitors. There are sixty grand prizes, [illegible] gold, [illegible] silver, and 5,000 bronze medals, and 9,000 honorable mentions. In group eight the Emperor of Russia was awarded a gold medal for fine horses. In group ten Napoleon was awarded a gold medal for a model lodging house. Marshal Valliant was about handing it to him, when the Emperor beckoned to the Prince Imperial, who came forward, took it from the Marshal's hand and placed it in Napoleon's amid loud cheers.

The only one with whom the Emperor shook hands was Mr. House, the inventor of the printing telegraph.

Receiving the medals and decorations the recipients resumed their seats. The Imperial cortege then left the throne, and walked around the entire building, passing the various groups, and occasionally stopping to examine trophies. The Empress Eugenie evidently expected the Sultan would offer her his arm, but he did not. There were no loud cheers until the Imperial party reached the American Department, when the American Commissioners rose and gave three loud American hurrahs. There was also much cheering when the English Department was reached. The Sultan wore his fez during the ceremony, and he seemed confused. The Empress appeared delighted. The Imperial cortege left the Exhibition grounds in the same manner it arrived, with the exception that the Sultan's carriages preceded Napoleon's. Altogether this was probably the finest pageant Paris ever witnessed.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The steamer Ville de Paris, from Brest on the 22d, has arrived.

The Queen of Prussia left Coblentz on the 20th for England.

In the House of Lords on the 21st, Earl Russel eulogized the conduct of Lord Stanley in the Luxemburg affair. Derby thanked him, and stated that England hesitated to take part in the conference until it became evident her participation was necessary to prevent war. Lord Clarendon also expressed his approval of Stanley's policy.

On the same day in the House of Commons a vote was taken on section 19th of the reform bill, giving electors the right to vote by ballot, and the section rejected by 272 against 224.

M. Benningsen and Count de Munster, of Hanover, had arrived at Berlin to hold consultation with Bismarck on the organization of a government for Hanover.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

Sherman Drops the Defensive and Assumes the Attack to Clean Out the Indians—Clamorous for War.

ST. LOUIS, July 2.—Denver papers publish a dispatch from General Sherman to General Hancock on Indian matters, in which he says we must not remain on the defensive, but follow them up and attack them on all possible occasions. We must clean out all the Indians between the Platte and the Arkansas, and then move against the hostile tribes in force beyond these rivers.

An Omaha dispatch says that Colonel Patrick, agent for the Northern Cheyennes, Arrapahoes and Ogallallas Sioux, has just arrived from the North Platte, where he met Spotted Tail, Swift Bear, and several other chiefs, in council, with the view of gathering all peaceable Indians at one point to be subsisted by the Government. About 1,100 Indians were represented, and are now camped near North Platte. They profess friendship, and agree to remain in camp, subject to the government, during the present hostilities. Big Mouth, with his band of Ogallallas, Pawnee Killer, with fifty lodges of Sioux and other bands, including Red Cap and Dog Hand, who, with their bands, participated in the Fort Phil. Kearney massacre, are all moving to join this camp, which will number about four thousand. Col. Patrick thinks arrangements will be carried out in good faith, but that the public may not be misled, Red Cloud, the biggest Sioux chief, and all the Cheyennes on Smoky Hill are clamorous for war, so that hopes for early peace are not to be indulged.

ANTIETAM CEMETERY.

Dedication of Antietam National Cemetery—The President, Cabinet and Congress Invited to be Present—The Poem.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Committee of Arrangements for the dedication of Antietam National Cemetery held a meeting recently. Among other business transacted was the adoption of a resolution cordially inviting the President of the United States and Cabinet, and members of both Houses to extend their sympathies and co-operation in the ceremony of dedication. The Committee also made the necessary arrangements to extend an invitation in due time to the army and navy, and Governors and Legislatures of the respective States and others. The Dedication Committee, instead of selecting a particular writer of the principal poem on the occasion, have concluded to throw open the theme to the poets of the country, with a request that they furnish poems of not less than two hundred lines each. None of the poems so furnished, except the successful one, will be made public without the consent of the author.

Meeting of Congress To-Day.

No Prospects of a Quorum in the Senate.

Progress of the Surratt Trial.

Scene Between Judge Fisher and Defendant's Counsel.

The Restoration Question in Cabinet Meeting.

Special Dispatch to Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2, 1867.

The Convening of Congress.

The meeting of Congress to-morrow has given Washington a lively appearance. Senators and members, especially the latter, have been coming in quite freely to-day and to-night. The hotels and Pennsylvania Avenue wear an aspect in striking contrast to that of the past few days. The probability of a quorum has been the subject of extended discussion, owing to the existence of a reasonable doubt on the part of the Senate. A close calculation of the number of Senators here and on their way shows that the Senate will lack two of a quorum. It is conceded that there will be a quorum in the House.

A Constitutional Question.

Notwithstanding the peremptory tone of the resolution requiring an adjournment to December on the non-appearance of a quorum, it is freely stated to-day that the members known as the impeachment party declare that Congress has the right to continue in session under the fifth section of the first article of the Constitution, which says that a majority of each House shall constitute a quorum to do business, but that a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and that these members intend to avail themselves of this clause to insure a session. There is a good deal of feeling, and no little excitement, in political circles, from this view of the case. The majority of the members, in conversation, favor a short session, and of confining legislation entirely to the reconstruction question.

The Washington evening papers announced that a caucus would be held to-night to decide on the business of the session, but there was no authority for such a statement and none has been held.

Presiding Officers Arrived.

Vice-President Wade and Speaker Colfax are on hand.

The Surratt Case.

The Surratt trial to-day was unusually interesting, and was against the prisoner very decidedly. Dr. McMillian testified to Surratt's confessing to him that he was in the plan with Booth to abduct the President, but that it was found necessary to abandon or change it. The witness, however, said that Surratt never told him that he was in Washington the day of the assassination, nor had he stated to him what the abduction plan had been changed. Surratt said that Booth telegraphed to him at Montreal to come to Washington as it had been found necessary to change the plan, and that he, Surratt, was in Elmira, New York, on the Thursday preceding the assassination. Surratt also related to the witness the statement of his dropping his handkerchief in St Albans, thereby corroborating the previous evidence in this particular. Benj. St. Marie, whose evidence has been anticipated with so much interest was next put on the stand. His presence caused a decided sensation in the Court room. Surratt seemed very nervous on seeing him. He testified that Surratt confessed in the Papal States that he (Surratt) was in Washington and escaped from the city thoroughly disguised on the night or the morning after the assassination. After the witness made this statement he left the stand. The counsel for the prisoner, to the surprise of all, declined to cross-examine him.

Counsel Bradley Threatens to Thrash Judge Fisher.

Quite a scene occurred in the Court House after the adjournment of the Court between Judge Fisher and Mr. Bradley, senior counsel for the prisoner. The latter approached the Judge in an excited manner, and said he excepted to his remarks from the bench in an allusion to the way in which the prisoner's counsel had cross-examined the witnesses. Judge Fisher said he was too ill to enter into a controversy now. Mr. Bradley informed the Judge that if he (Fisher) were not sick he would thrash him. Judge Fisher replied that he did not claim immunity from the threatened castigation on account of illness, and it is said squared himself for a fight. The bystanders interfered, when Bradley dared Fisher to expel him from the bar. The Judge replied that he should not prejudice his case by doing that. At this stage young Bradley came rushing in pushing the crowd aside and seemingly making toward the Judge in a violent way, but by this time the Judge had been taken into an adjoining room, and Bradley, Jr., seeking an interview fully disclaimed the inference that he was intending to assault him, but was merely making his way through the crowd to see what was the matter. The affair has caused considerable excitement.

Confirmation Wanted.

The French Government telegraphed here to-day for confirmatory intelligence of the execution of Maximilian, but a reply was made that no additional details had been received.

Cabinet Meeting.

The Cabinet to-day had its first regular meeting since the President's return, and resumed the discussion of the restoration of the Southern officials. So far as can be learned at this hour it was decided to restore the Louisiana Levee Commissioners. Nothing was said about removing Generals Sheridan and Sickles, and it is well understood that they will not be interfered with.

Judge Wayne Very Ill.

Judge Wayne, of the Supreme Court, is very low to-night. His physicians say he cannot recover.

WASHINGTON, July 3.

STORMS.

This morning two separate severe storms, with thunder, lightning and hail, did much damage, blowing down the walls of buildings, uprooting trees, unmooring vessels, and damaging some of them considerably.

DISPATCH FROM NAPOLEON.

A dispatch has been received over the cable from Emperor Napoleon, asking if the news of Maximilian's death had been confirmed. An affirmative reply was returned.

INVESTIGATION ORDERED.

Gen. Grant has ordered an investigation of the military order for the alleged offense of selling liquor to soldiers at Fort Sedgwick. Should the result of the inquiry warrant, a court martial will be ordered for the trial of the offender.

CONGRESS.

Twenty-three Senators having arrived in Washington, only four more are required to secure a quorum. It is said they will be forthcoming by to-morrow, not counting Democrats. Prominent members of the House say there is no doubt of a quorum in that body of Republicans alone.

THE CHOLERA IN SICILY.

The Department of State learns from the United States Consulate at Palermo, June 6th, that the Asiatic cholera has again broken out on the south side of Sicily. There were thirty to forty deaths daily at Gergentine, in a population of 2,000. Several other places where the cholera is prevalent are mentioned.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

The receipts of Internal Revenue yesterday were over two millions.

POWERS OF MILITARY COMMANDERS.

The question of the powers of military commanders was discussed in cabinet meeting to-day.

ILLNESS OF JUDGE WAYNE.

Judge Wayne, of the Supreme Court, is still dangerously ill, but [with] a prospect of recovery.

SECRETARY BROWNING

Is not yet well enough to resume his official [duties], and will not leave Quincy, Illinois, for this city before Monday next.

Treatment of Maximilian.

NEW ORLEANS July 2.—A Galveston dispatch says: A Monterey letter, written previous to the evacuation, says the Emperor was stripped entirely naked, and Escobedo presented him with a shirt to cover his nakedness.

RECONSTRUCTION.

SENATOR WILSON'S PROPOSITION.

All Civil Offices in the South to be Vacated.

Military Commanders to Fill the Same as they Shall Deem Expedient.

Special Dispatch to Commercial.

WASHINGTON, July 2, 1867.

Senator Wilson has prepared a bill to settle the points in controversy on reconstruction, and will offer it to-morrow. It consists of two sections. The first declares all civil offices in the ten States vacated within thirty days, and authorizes the Commanding General to fill them by reappointment of present incumbents, by appointment of new ones or by election, as they shall deem expedient. The second section authorizes the Board of Registration to refuse to register any men whom they believe to be disqualified, and gives the persons so rejected twenty days to prove to the satisfaction of the register that he is not disqualified. From the second decision of the Register there is no appeal.

Mr. Wilson says he will strenuously oppose the introduction of any other subject of legislation than that immediately connected with reconstruction during the summer session. He believes the bill just referred to, and an appropriation bill to furnish additional money to carry on the work, will be sufficient. He is opposed to confiscation, and says he will vote directly against it whenever it is brought up. He is also opposed to Sumner's universal suffrage bill, but will favor a constitutional amendment providing for universal suffrage at the next session of Congress. He speaks very hopefully of the South, and says no doubt that every one of the States will come in under the military bill next winter.

DOMINION OF CANADA.

Inauguration of the New Government—Members of the Council Knighted—The Demonstration at Halifax a Poor Affair.

OTTAWA, C. E., July 2.—After being sworn in yesterday as Viceroy of the Dominion of Canada, Lord Monck announced that the Queen had conferred on Hon. James A. McDonald the Knight Companion of the Bath, and on Messrs. Howland, McDougal, Cartier, Tilloy and Tuppy Companions of the Bath. The inauguration took place in the Council Chamber. About fifty persons were present. Sir James A. McDonald has formed the Privy Council, which has been sworn in. It is understood to be constituted as announced some days ago.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A special from Ottawa to the Herald says: Lord Monck will remain at the head of the Government for twelve months only, and be succeeded by the Duke of Buckingham.

The Herald's special from Halifax says: The holiday for the dominion was a poor affair, being observed by only a small portion. Half the shops were open. The Scotch, English and Irish Societies refused to go out in procession. Several flags were at half-mast. The Daily Chronicle came out in black. The anti-Unionists treat the affair with contempt.

MONTREAL, July 2.—Reports from every city, town and village in the Dominion are agreed on the unanimity and heartiness with which Confederation Day was celebrated. No previous event in the history of the country called forth such universal rejoicing.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 2, 1867.

GOVERNORSHIP OF OUR NEW TERRITORY.

It is reported the President has tendered the Governorship of the recent purchase from Russia to Hon. Benj. Stark, of New London, Conn., lately Democratic Senator from Oregon.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

A San Francisco telegram of to-day says the steamship Golden Fleece, from Yokohama, arrived here this morning. An English clerk, in the employ of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, was shot at by natives while at dinner, and narrowly escaped assassination, having persisted in living outside the foreigners' limits.

OHIO ITEMS.

The Ohio Journal says the prospects for an abundant harvest in this part of the State were never better. The wheat is very fine, and some early fields are being cut. There is more barley sown than usual, and it is also in a fine condition. The warm weather has brought the corn forward very fast, and a good crop is now considered certain.

A certificate of incorporation of the Union Iron Company has been filed at Columbus. Capital $400,000. The works are to be at Jefferson, Jackson county, and Washington, Lawrence county.

Tuscarawas county, as we learn from the Chronicle, reports for last year 485,687 lbs. of wool; 75,000 bushels of wheat; 22,958 bushels barley; 37,591 bushels buckwheat; 496,367 bushels oats; 744,005 bushels corn; 1,234 lbs. of flax; 1,904 bushels flaxseed; 24,551 tons of hay; 64,452 bushels of potatoes; 14,776 lbs tobacco; 596,579 lbs. butter; 82,960 lbs. cheese; 1,086,135 bushels coal; 56,478 gallons sorghum syrup; 15,624 lbs. maple sugar; 11,700 lbs grapes, and 1,830 gallons wine.

The Highland News says: "We are informed that Mr. Scott Patton, of this township, has about 90 acres of wheat, on 25 acres of which hd anticipates the extraordinary yield of 30 bushels to the acre. He has contracted with one of our dealers to deliver 1,000 bushels at $1 50 per bushel immediately after harvest. The News says there is some complaint of rust on the blade, and of smut in some fields, but the weather has been very favorable for ripening, and it is thought the grain will be of excellent quality and the yield large.

The Clinton Republican says: There has been no material change in the prices of wool here since last week. From 40 to 50 cents is the range, depending on quality of fibre, and character of its handling; almost as much on the latter as on the first.

A rat hunt was recently concluded in the neighborhood of Lancaster, Ohio, which resulted in the slaughter of 16,598 rats. One party brought in 8,746 tails, and the other 7,852, a difference of 894. The farmers had raised a purse of $77, three-fifths of which was awarded to the winning company, and the balance to their competitors.

A Mr. Cramer, a former resident of Portsmouth, has returned to his home from the far West, and commenced a search for a silver mine said to exist within eight miles of the town.

Mr. Isaac Spangler Taylor, son of Grondo D. Taylor, of Zanesville, was drowned in the Muskingum river near Cox's paper mill, about nine o'clock Sunday evening, while bathing.

The Muskingum county Union Republican Convention have nominated the following ticket: For Representatives, D. H. Willard, L. Rambo; Clerk of Court, Captain George C. Hull; County Treasurer, Capt. J. T. Gorsuch; Prosecuting Attorney, Capt. D. B. Gary; County Recorder, Andros Guille; County Commissioner, N. F. Claypole; Infirmary Director, John M. Bonnet; Coroner, James M'Glaughlin, Sr.

The Vienna New Free Press says, that "a report is current that Baron de Beust has addressed to all the foreign cabinets a circular dispatch, in which he informs them of the brilliant manner in which the coronation fetes at Pesth-Ofen had taken place. The document dwells on the importance of that event in the point of view of European politics, and declares that Austria will henceforth be able to act with a more efficacious power in the interest of the pacific development of Europe."

THE TURF.

The Perrysville Park on the Fourth—Lady Ellen's Time.

There will be three spirited races over John Gason's track, at Perrysville, to-morrow afternoon, which will attract a large crowd to that beautiful village. There will be a double team race, between John Gidland's bay mare "Gipsey Girl" and mate, and owner's team, and also a pacing and a trotting race between several fast nags. All of these matches will be well contested, and turfites will find them full of interest.

The time made by Mr. Hugus's bay mare "Lady Ellen," last week at the Exchange Driving Park, is creating no little talk, and not a few seem disposed to question the fact, although abundance of proof can be obtained that she made her mile under saddle in 2:35. "Lady Ellen" will be five years old in the Fall, and although her last performance astonished her backers they are prepared to back her against that time at any time.

HANG OUT YOUR BANNERS.—Every patriotic citizen will doubtless feel inclined to-morrow to hang out the good old flag, provided he has the bunting. If he has not, Pittock, opposite the Postoffice, has an ample assortment of all kinds of flags, from which a selection may easily be made.

The Daily Commercial

WEDNESDAY, JULY 3, 1867.

THE COMMERCIAL is the largest daily paper in the State, and gives daily one-fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that uses the telegraph liberally, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

WE hope Congress will call for the correspondence and all the facts connected with the efforts of this Government to save MAXIMILIAN's life. There is just the bare suspicion that Mr. SEWARD may have employed the arts of circumlocution—a suspicion, which, if groundless, he will be anxious to remove by making public all the correspondence.

THE true account of the Birmingham riots has at last reached us, and was placed before the readers of the COMMERCIAL yesterday morning. It turns out to have been not a ritualistic affair, but a quarrel between Protestants and Romanists. It was an "anti-Popery" riot, begun by the Romanists, as one was lately in Alton, Illinois. MURPHY harangued or lectured against Popery, and his place of meeting was attacked, when his adherents resisted and in retaliation committed some violent and disorderly acts in the town and on a Romish church. With the facts now before us, we pronounce the affair, as we did on its first announcement, a wrong, whichsoever side began it, and a wrong resulting from the cultivation of religious antipathies and prejudices. Club-law is the logic of barbarism and brutality, and cannot be a suitable rejoinder to even the weak logic of speech, in religious controversies. It rather gives weight and influence to the sentiments which it opposes. Bludgeons and shillalehs are arguments addressed to the outside of the head not to the intellect. They could be omitted in ecclesiastical matters, without detriment or discredit to anybody.

"How MUCH nobler in the eyes of the world," says the New York Tribune, "will America appear with DAVIS free, than Mexico with the dead body of this amiable and unfortunate Prince." Few persons, we apprehend, want the "dead body" of DAVIS. What is demanded is the settlement—through his trial—of the question whether secession inheres with our system of Government, and whether or not DAVIS, in organizing and prosecuting the rebellion offended any law. The questions what shall be done with DAVIS, and whether the rebellion was a crime and the originators deserve punishment, are distinct. In disposing of MAXIMILIAN the Mexicans have settled—thoroughly and forever—a similar question as it related to them. Though the killing was unnecessary to prosecute this purpose—a purpose on which they were deeply intent—they did settle the question and all the world knows which way. They might have done it and still been merciful; and this is what they should have done. By setting DAVIS free, with no intention of trying him, we refuse altogether to settle the question of right, of treason, of the undissolubleness of the Union.

Most men will concede that in case [illegible] pect the Mexicans have the advantage [illegible] us in this matter, and they will continue to have it until the question of DAVIS's treason shall have been passed upon according to laws as old as the Republic itself. It is not the body or blood of the organizer of the Rebellion that is demanded, but the vindication of the laws. We can remit indemnity for the past, but security for the future is demanded by every consideration relating to our character and future tranquility.

MEETING OF CONGRESS.

To-morrow Congress is to convene, in extra session, according to adjournment. The circumstances attending this meeting are different from those of any previous one. It is an extra session, but not called, as is usual, by the President nor is its assemblage probably agreeable to him. Although appointed in anticipation of its being possibly necessary, yet the special causes that bring on the session are not those which were contemplated in appointing it. The object is to secure what has been the principal aim of Congress for the past two sessions, the speedy and just restoration of the States that have been thrown out of gear by the rebellion. Specially, the design is, to frustrate a flank movement attempted by the Executive branch of the Government since the adjournment of Congress, and, on the whole, the session may turn out to be a legislative campaign for the suppression of the rebellion.

Precisely how Congress will address itself to this work, it may be difficult to say. It does not appear to be its function to interpret the law, which has occasioned this meeting. But it is quite within the line of its prerogative and its dignity, if seen to be advisable, to supplement its past legislation or even to supercede it by repeal and the enactment of another law in its stead. The position of affairs as deranged by the Attorney General is perplexing—meant to be made so, perhaps—but we have confidence in the representatives of the people, and are assured that they will disentangle the case and put it in the way of successful progress again.

Until the official—we might almost say officious—interference with the wholesome operations of the law of last session, the reconstruction work was going on as well as could be expected. It was conciliating the better classes of the Southern people, and promising a restoration of both order and amity. Congress was growing in the good opinion of the Southern people, whose wisest and best political men were in favor of the law for reconstruction. These had first come to entertain wholesome suspicion of the officious and selfish friendship of the Democracy, and then to wisely repudiate it. And if Congress pursue a judicious and decided course at its approaching session, those in the South who are favorable to the Union, may be induced to take another step in the direction of their own best interests, by discarding the partisan and sectional advocacy of the Attorney General, and by coming squarely upon the ground of reconstruction prescribed by Congress. Their cheerful concurrence in the friendly policy and measures of that body would undoubtedly be their wisest and shortest pathway to a happy reinstatement in the Union. They have already too long trusted in unreliable parties.

THE ASSASSINATION PLOT DEVELOPING.

The testimony in the case of SURRATT grows daily more interesting, not only the new facts it reveals with reference to the prisoner on trial, but also because it indicates the probable complicity of others, as has been strongly suspected ever since the fatal day of Mr. LINCOLN's assassination. The most direct statements are made by Dr. MCMILLIAN, the surgeon of the vessel in which SURRATT crossed the sea, in making his escape. SURRATT, himself a Catholic, was introduced to Dr. MCMILLIAN by a Catholic priest named LA PIERRE, who seems to have had the fugitive in charge, and to have been expecting him before his arrival in Montreal. With the Surgeon, as an officer of a British vessel and as introduced by the priest, SURRATT was quite confidential and communicative during the voyage.

From the facts mentioned in the surgeon's testimony, it must be seen how the suspicions of the complicity of leading secessionists in the assination receive confirmation. SURRATT, now fully proved to have been engaged in the assassination plot, was the messenger by whom the communicatons between Richmond and Canada were kept up. He received, as he said to Dr. MCMILLIAN, large sums of money from BENJAMIN, the Treasurer of the Confederacy. And on his arrival in Quebec, and during the voyage, he was in company and conversation with BEVERLY TUCKER, JEWETT, General RIPLEY, of South Carolina, and a servant of JEFF. DAVIS.

We have no doubt Mr. DAVIS and the secession company around him in Canada have peculiar sensations when they read this testimony. And the people of this country will be struck with the fact that Mr. DAVIS should have made directly for their congenial society as soon as he was released from prison. The coincidence of the testimony with the general belief of the people three years ago is very striking, and the leading names involved in it are now companions together in Canada, holding their communications without the aid of SURRATT.

JUDGE SHARSWOOD A COPPERHEAD.

Senator BIGHAM, in the Williamsport Convention, alleged that Judge SHARSWOOD, the Democratic nominee for the Supreme Judgeship, had, during the most trying period of the late rebellion, given aid and comfort to the rebels, and had used his official position on the Bench to weaken the cause of the Union, by delivering an elaborate opinion denying the power of Congress to make our national currency a legal tender, without which no intelligent citizen can believe the rebellion would have been put down.

The Pittsburgh Post faintly denies the charge. We leave Senator BIGHAM to take care of himself; for we understand he expects shortly to produce the documents. In the meantime a legal friend, whose memory seems to be pretty good, gives us his recollection of the facts of this case.

Within a few months after the passage by Congress of the act making our national currency a legal tender, a person who had given a mortgage in Philadelphia offered to pay in greenbacks the amount, with interest and costs. This was refused by the holder of the mortgage, and a stated case was made up for the District Court. This happened to be at the darkest hour of the Union cause, when the rebels in arms, and their sympathizing allies at the North, were striving with some prospect of success to secure recognition. This national currency act had been carefully prepared. Its constitutionality had been elaborately examined in both branches of Congress. Attorney General BATES and President LINCOLN had given it a careful consideration. Up to this time it had not come before the courts for judicial construction. Judges STROUD and HARE, composing a majority of the court, affirmed the constitutionality of the act, and ordered judgment accordingly. Judge SHARSWOOD, following his Copperhead proclivities, pronounced an elaborate dissenting opinion, filling two or three columns of the Philadelphia Age, synopsis of which was published in nearly all the Copperhead papers of the North and the rebel organs of the South. The Legal Intelligencer, of Philadelphia, published both the majority and minority opinions, and of course they can be had.

The District Court of Philadelphia was not organized to pass upon the constitutionality of acts of Congress. That belongs to the courts of the United States. As well might a justice of the peace give an opinion setting aside an act of our State Legislature. The Supreme Court of the State passes upon the constitutionality of acts of the State Legislature, and the Supreme Court of the United States upon the constitutionality of such acts of Congress as this. It was an act of gross impertinence for a single Judge of an inferior State Court to write such an opinion and to publish the same at such a time and under such circumstances. Nothing but his radical unsoundness on the vital questions involving the life of the nation—Copperheadism—which makes the animal blind in dog days, can explain it.

The doctrine itself is the foundation stone of the States Right School at the bottom of the Rebellion, which denies to the Federal Government all power even to save itself from destruction unless an express grant can be found in the Constitution. Mr. LINCOLN, the generals of our armies and Congress, a thousand times exercised this class of powers, but which JEREMIAH S. BLACK, GEORGE SHARSWOOD, and all the platforms of Northern Copperheadism deny to exist.

But this general statement does not show the full malignity of this dissenting opinion. The cause of the Union at no other time seemed so dark. Just then—

> "Trifles light as air
> Were to the jealous, confirmation strong
> As proofs of Holy Writ."

GEORGE SHARSWOOD, an old Whig, said to be a Presbyterian elder, elected by both political parties, volunteers his dissenting opinion, and soils his judicial ermine by throwing it upon the rebel scales, with the vain hope that it would sink the Union cause. Thanks to a kind Providence and the brave Boys in Blue, a thousand such pop-guns have been dangerous only to their authors—be they armed rebels or Northern copperheads.

We, therefore, have no doubt that if Senator BIGHAM and our legal informant are correct in their statement of facts, the loyal people of Pennsylvania will not be long in deciding that Judge WILLIAMS, who is fully the equal of Judge SHARSWOOD as a lawyer, superadded thereto is an accomplished Christian gentleman and loyal patriot, whose voice and judicial influence were always cast in favor of the Union and for the suppression of the rebellion, shall be our next Supreme Judge.

MR. GREELEY FLOUNDERING.

Whatever may have been the object of calling Mr. GREELEY before the Impeachment Committee, his testimony concerning his share in the bailing of DAVIS cannot be said to relieve his position before the country. A while ago Mr. GREELEY said he went the traitor's bail principally because urgently requested to do so by his counsel. He now—laying no particular stress on the request, which was by Mr. SHEA, the junior counsel—says he went bail to bring DAVIS to trial, but Mr. GREELEY says, and repeats the observation, that he believes "the time for a trial, for any good purpose has past." So we have Mr. GREELEY squarely avowing that the trial of DAVIS for organizing and prosecuting the rebellion for the overthrow of the Government would be for no "good purpose," and that consequently he is opposed to it. It is just to say that Mr. GREELEY concedes that if DAVIS can be connected with the assassination or the starving of our soldiers, he should be tried.

Had DAVIS not organized the rebellion there would have been no assassination or starving. They came about as did the battles of Gettysburg and other battles. It is a settled principle, if a man intends to burn the house but burns both house and family, he is guilty of what he does over and above what he intended. Mr. GREELEY's idea is, if you can connect DAVIS with the assassination he should be tried, but not for organizing the rebellion, which culminated in the assassination. In other words, if the family is burnt, try the incendiary; if only the house, let him go.

THE feelings of Napoleon, when the intelligence of the sad death of Maximilian reached him, must have been of the most distressing kind. The common grief of friendship and humanity must have been embittered by some degree of self-crimination. If not in form, yet in their secret hearts the sovereigns of Europe will hold him, in a measure, responsible for the sad fate of the prince, who, under his auspices, took his seat on a usurped throne, and was, through his desertion, hurled from it and ignominiously slain. The melancholy intelligence will cause grief and indignation in all the courts of Europe. Many will be taken by surprise at the painful announcement. In France the impression seems to have prevailed that the throne of Maximilian was securely established. Duruy, Minister of public instruction in France, published a history lately for the use of schools, and designing to bring it down to the present time, introduces the Mexican enterprise. He closes what he writes on that subject with these words: "The Emperor Maximilian reigns peacefully over a happy people." The news of the death will afford a mournful comment on the history.

PROF. S. P. LANGLEY, of the U. S. Observatory connected with the Naval Academy at Annapolis, is in Pittsburgh. He has come here to see our Observatory. He is an enthusiast in his department, and has enjoyed rare opportunities in the Observatory in Cambridge and in Europe to acquaint himself with everything connected with astronomy. We hope he may be engaged here. He will be a most valuable acquisition to science here.

Presidential.

The Titusville Herald nominates Gen. Grant for President, and Hon. Galusha A. Grow for Vice President. The Wilmington (Del.) Commercial nominates Gen. Grant for President and Hon. W. D. Kelley for Vice President.

The Harrisburg Telegraph pronounces the following oracular words:

> "We are inclined to the opinion that the crisis is fast verging, will national affairs to which we are to be made the candidate or single out the fit for the Presidency. A date of the Republican fed but living for usefulness, great leader, yet untime, and prove himself capable will be brought out at the end of the difficulties into [illegible] the plunged in order to screen our which it has been worst enemies."

Of course the Telegraph was too modest to say that the name of "the great leader" is SIMON CAMERON.

The New York Commercial says:

> Speaker Colfax, so far, leads off in the race for the Presidency. His friends are confident. The other Congressional candidates are Butler, Boutwell, Banks, Fessenden, Sumner, Wade, Wilson, and lately, Roscoe Conkling. The canvass for the nomination is getting hot, and Colfax's friends claim that their candidate has the inside track.

The Responsibility.

The N. Y. Commercial undertakes to locate the responsibility of the "taking off" of Maximilian in the following manner:

> There is, if this report be true, stern reasons for deploring the imbecility of ex-Minister Campbell. That under any circumstance he should have frittered away a Winter in New Orleans, is inexcusable. But for remaining there an hour after the capture and peril of Maximilian, he makes himself responsible for consequences. In Mexico, where he ought to have been, Mr. Campbell could have saved the life of a fallen monarch; and, what is even more important, saved the new Government from the just reproaches of the civilized world.

Mr. Campbell was within reach of Mr. Seward every moment of the entire winter spoken of as having been "frittered away," and it was his duty to have started the "imbecile" Minister either for Mexico or out of his office. The words of the Commercial are quite as pertinent in their application to Mr. Seward as Mr. Campbell.

The Commercial professes itself "still incredulous," and speaks of the reported shooting of Maximilian as being what "may prove erroneous information." We trust it will so turn out.

Grand Railroad Scheme.

An Indianapolis correspondent announces the arrival in that city of the railroad kings who have been laboring for several days at Terre Haute to obtain possession of the Indianapolis and Terre Haute and the Terre Haute and Alton Railroads. They did, indeed, secure the latter, but failed to obtain possession of the former. Our readers, generally, may not be informed as to the magnitude of the scheme involved, which is nothing less than a continuous line of rail from Philadelphia to St. Louis, owned and controlled by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad Company. This Company already controls the entire line, except an insignificant one hundred miles, from Indanapolis to Terre Haute, and that broken link will soon be replaced by a new one.

UNLESS authentic news is received concerning General Custer, the report that he has been ambuscaded and killed will occasion uneasiness. An Omaha dispatch, the 29th of June, says: "General Custar when last heard from was at the forks of the Republican river. If the hostile Indians go south he will pursue. No late Indian disturbances are reported at headquarters."

WE are asked to believe a version of Mr. Wade's agrarian speech, by a correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, who avers that he (Wade,) "is strictly temperate, and never in his whole life was under the influence of liquor."

THE latest news concerning the Prince Imperial of France is that the medical attendants have declared, in the most formal manner, that no ill consequences of any kind are to be apprehended from the late illness of the young Prince.

WHILE we are having regular scorching days, they are complaining on the seaboard of weather too cool for the season and detrimental to summer hotels.

THE LORD BOND ROBBERY.—No Crœsus, ancient or modern, ever took a loss of millions so complacently as Mr. Lord. So far as is known, that robbery did not for a moment effect either his temper, appetite, digestion or sleep. While others have mined and countermined for the recovery of the bonds, without the robbers, Mr. Lord has reposed. It is now understood that the bonds have been recovered, but how, and where, and by whom, is as much a mystery as ever.

REV. Wm. A. Snively, late of St. Andrews in this city, has become the pastor of Christ Church, Cincinnati. He preached his introductory sermon Sunday last, taking for his text Gallatians 21. 14: "God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." The Commercial, which reports the sermon in full, says it "was listened to by a large, attentive and evidently highly pleased congregation. He is a fine reader, and expresses many eloquent ideas."

QUEEN VICTORIA delegated one of her daughters, the Princess Alice, to hold a drawing room in her Majesty's name at St. James's Palace on the 15th of June. The attendance, however, was extremely small, and the fact is regarded as an evidence of the increasing ill-humor of fashionable society at the seclusion in which the Queen still chooses to live.

GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

One thousand breech-loading arms, and fifty thousand cartridges have been issued from the arsenal at Leavenworth, for the use of the engineers and workmen on the Pacific Railroad, in order to protect themselves against the attacks of Indians.

Some workmen digging a cellar in Polk township, Monroe county, Indiana, struck upon a subterranean chamber with a six-foot ceiling, and eighteen by twenty-five feet within the walls which are solid, neatly-seamed stone work. Ranged in rows, on rudely constructed platforms, were twelve skeletons, each with tomahawk and arrow-heads at their sides, ear-rings and bracelets of solid silver, lying where they dropped, and piles of what appeared to have been furs in the center of the platform, each pile crumbling to dust as soon as exposed to the light. A number of tools made of copper, and hardened equal to the best cast-steel, were also unearthed, and fresh discoveries are being constantly made.

Although the Philadelphia city authorities have made no provision for celebrating the Fourth, yet private citizens and independent organizations will do it quite extensively—all with "unequaled splendor," of course.

The stove-pipe hat is in great danger. The inexorable leaders of fashion are bent upon abolishing it. The work proceeds by degrees, and consists in gradually lowering the crown and widening the brim until it becomes, according to the description, a "low, stiff sombrero, of silk-covered card-board, with soft interior edges."

The Wheeling Intelligencer reports an immense yield of blackberries in the briar patch of that section, and says the steamboats and railroads will have enough to do in taking them to market.

A New York letter avers that some uneasiness is felt lest Congress, at the extra session, enter upon tariff tinkering—perplexity and unsettling of values, with speculative ventures being the result.

The foreign imports at New York during the week were as follows: Dry goods, $1,138,165; general merchandise, $3,232,382—total, $4,371,547. Among the entries were the following: tea, $222,112; sugar in hhds and bbls, $516,592; do in boxes and bags, $76,804; coffee, $237,355; molasses, $148,218; india rubber, $105,816; fancy goods, $40,015; jewelry, $18,085; watches $6,997; cigars, $7,157; toys, $16,559; wool, $90,558; furs, $75,345; dressed hides, $68,964; do undressed, $113,594.

The specie shipments from New York Saturday were: Per Periere, $350,246; per Hammonia, $302,165; per City of Boston, $174,987. This makes a total for the week of $1,140,098, and $24,219,924 from 1st of January to date, against $45,072,778 during the corresponding season last year.

A good joke is told at the expense of W. S. Lingle, the Radical editor of the Lafayette Courier, during the war. By the death of a bachelor uncle he became joint heir to large property in Virginia, and while hesitating between a trip to Europe or an additional investment in real estate, he learns to his disgust that the administrator had invested sixty thousand dollars of the personal property in Confederate bonds. A large plantation in the Shenandoah Valley, without tenant, house or rail, is all that is left of his fortune.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE
Minnesota, Mississippi and Wisconsin Rivers.
UNITED STATES ENGINEER'S OFFICE, ST. PAUL, MINN., June 22, 1867.
Sealed Proposals in duplicate will be received at this office, addressed to the undersigned, until 12 M., THURSDAY, July 25th, as follows:
FIRST.
Proposals for Removing Snags and Boulders from the Channel of the Minnesota River.
This work is in two sections, the Upper Section being from the junction of the Yellow Medicine River to Mankato, 133 miles, has reefs of small and large boulders, and snags singly or in groups. The width is about 200 feet; the low water channel way 20 to 40 feet wide, with depth from 10 to 24 inches, and current half to 2½ miles per hour. The Lower Section being from Mankato to the Little Rapids, 61 miles, is mainly obstructed by snags. The width is about 250 to 300 feet; the low water channel way 40 to 80 feet wide, with depth from 15 to 20 inches, and current one to two miles per hour. The Little Rapids at low water can only be passed by light vessels of one foot draft. With a rise of four feet, these rapids are no obstruction.
The banks throughout the river are generally alluvial from 10 to 20 feet above low water. The floods reach 25 feet above low water. By the term "snag" is meant sunken logs and stumps, and trees with roots imbedded in the bottom of the stream. They vary in diameter from one-half to 3½ feet. The boulders will not require stronger lifting machinery than the snags will, and may be deposited in deep holes, but snags must be destroyed or placed where they cannot again wash into the channel way. The work will be let entire or in such parts as the engineer may determine. $37,000 is appropriated for this work.
Contractors will state the price of removal per snag of the following diameters above the root: First, between 6 inches and 20 inches. Second, between 20 inches and 30 inches. Third, between 30 inches and 36 inches. Fourth, between 36 inches and 42 inches. The price of removing boulders will be stated by the ton or cubic yard.
Contractors will be required to furnish their own boats, machinery, &c., as well as labor, to interfere as little as practicable with navigation, and to show that they possess the necessary skill and experience, and that the means to be used are adapted to the river, and suitable in construction and mechanical power. They will be required to commence work at two points at least by the first of September next, the stage of water permitting.
These proposals must be indorsed on the envelope "Proposals for removing snags and boulders from the Minnesota river."
SECOND.
Proposals to Sell to the United States Two (2) Substantial Light Draught Steamers of the Following General Dimensions, viz:
No. 1.—Hull, 120 feet long, 25 feet wide, exclusive of guards, with 3½ or 4 feet depth of hold, to draw 18 inches light. Boilers, two (2) 22 feet long, 33 inches diameter, 4 flues. Engines double, cylinders 6 feet stroke, 18 inches diameter, poppet valves.
No. 2.—Hull 150 long, 32 feet wide, exclusive of guards, with 4 to 5 feet depth of hold; to draw 20 inches light. Boilers, three (3) 24 feet long by 38 inches diameter, 4 flues. Engines double, cylinders 8½ inches by 22 inches, poppet valves.
The bids may be for either side wheel or stern wheel boats. The wheel or wheels to be of suitable diameter, and length of bucket to correspond with dimensions of boilers and engines given above.
Boilers to be of best ¼ inches charcoal iron, capable of sustaining a working pressure of 150 pounds to the square inch, with improved guages for testing pressure of steam and height of water.
Engines to be of most approved pattern now in use on Western waters, with "doctor" for supplying boilers, and "nigger," or capstan, and hoisting engines.
Boat not to be over two (2) years old, in good repair, sound condition, substantially built of best material, and fully equipped with spars, derricks, capstan, bells, steam whistle, tools, tackle and all needful outfit for immediate service.
It is essential that the boats offered for sale as above specified have a bluff, or well rounded bow, in order to insure a great amount of bearing capacity forward.
The cabin required will be of moderate dimensions, such as usually furnished to freight or tow boats.
The proposals must describe minutely the construction and dimensions of every part of hull and upper works, machinery and outfit, and place where built, and must be endorsed on the envelope "Proposals to sell Steamboats."
Fifteen days after signing contracts will be allowed for delivery of boats.
THIRD.
Proposals to wreck steamer "Northern Light."
The Northern Light lies in the channel in the lower end of Coon Slough, where she sunk in April, 1866, and since abandoned by her owners. The Government reserves no right to possess anything removed from her—the wreckers to enjoy all the rights pertaining to such enterprises.
Contractors will state the charge for removing every part of this vessel and machinery down as low five feet below extreme low water during the present season, and no bid will be considered unless the party offering it shall give satisfactory evidence that he is reliable and possessed of the ability to perform the work.
Proposals to be endorsed on the envelope "Proposals to wreck steamer Northern Light."
A printed copy of this advertisement must be attached to each proposal herein solicited. Each bid must contain a written guarantee, signed by two responsible persons. Blanks for proposals will be furnished at this office on application.
The Government reserves the right to reject any and all bids.
Parties desiring further information can obtain the same by calling at this office, where maps of the rivers and drawings of vessels for removing snags and boulders will be shown to all who desire to make proposals.

NASBY.

The Boston Excursion.

Nasby's latest letter is dated at Tremont House, Boston, June 25th. It opens by saying that the President's "corjel recepshen in North Karliny give him a sort uv appetite for popler applause, and he determined upon tryin it in the North agin." Randall opposed it, saying that if the President persisted in these expeditions he would die "from the effex uv a disease sooperindoost by over effort in a great many attempts to save politikel friends from bein strangled." At last, however, Randall withdrew his opposition, saying: "Yoo kin do us no damage ef the reporters is properly trained, and ef yoo deliver only such sepeches ez we determine upon beforehand. Yoo go thro Delaware which is ourn: Noo Gersey won't hurt us very much, coz yoo've bin thro there wunst and they know wat to expect; N. Y. will give a enthoosiastic recepshun ef Morrisy and Ben Wood will take holt uv the matter together—by the way, Seward, telegraft em to wunst—and in Connecticut yoor certain uv a corjul resepshun. That State is full uv demoralized Yankee Dimocrats, who hev bin out to Michigan and left there all the Puritanism and brot back with them, in its stead, all the cussidness indigenous to that soil, which cussidness grafted onto ther natral cuteness, makes them rather enterprisin in their worthlisnis. In Boston itself the prospect is good. Ther'll be an immense crowd present to dedicate the Masonik Temple, which we shell claim the credit uv bringin, ez we did the throng which come to see us on the toor north, but wich wood persist in hollerin "Grant!" The trooly decent men uv Boston are Ablishnists, but there's some thousands which want offices, and them, with the sprinklin of Democrats and conservatives, ought to make us a handsome recepshun. There is yet in Boston men who used to return fugitive slaves, and ther is besides, the eminently respectable gentlemen, who are so conservative that they hold onto sin becoz its old, and established by precedent, and so aristocratic that they wont do right, jist becoz doin rite is a quite common thing in that secksun: who hold onto the cote tale uv progress and holler "stop!" and who ef they tie theirselves to a good cause load it down with their dignity. Like the 2d Lootenants of '61, their baggage is worth mor'n they are. But the trip wont hurt us. You can't make the Ablishnists more Ablishin, and them ez foller us for the loaves and fishes we dispense, wood still foller us, ef the road we took led us strate through perdishen as a pigeon wood fly. We'll go. Ef yoo will make this toor and say nothin ideotik, the very novelty uv it will direct attention from what we've sided to do with Sheridan, Sickles, Pope, et al."

We quote the closing part of the letter entire, which describes the arrival in Boston:

We wuz receeved by Gov'nor Bullock, whose speech wuz a noble triboot to the President. "I welcome yoo," sed he, "to Massachoosits. Many Presidents hev visited Noo England, and this visit, like theres', excites devoshen to the Yoonion and respeck for them wich, in their offishel posishen, respeck the government uv the whole country. Our desire is to manifest our regard for those who, in their offishel capacity, respeck the Nashnel Yoonion, wich is to say, we respeck the Nashnel Yoonion. I trust the President will stay long enuff to enable us to manifest our high regard—(here the President's face brightened up) FOR YOUR OFFIS! (the President turned frightfully red, wich Bullock, whose principles wuz a rasslin a back holt with his politeness, notist, and he added), AND TO YOU, PERSONALLY!"

Ez them last word ishood slowly and desperitly the President's face lighted up. He tendered him thanks for the resepshun. He woodent undertake to conceel emoshuns which agitated him at this persnel welcome upon the soil uv Massachoosits. It wuznt necessary for him to go into the hisry of Massachoosits ez he was in the habit ov doin further South, ez those afore him wuz probably ez familyer with it ez he wuz, but he wood ashoor em, for their encouragement, that the histry uv Massachoosits in conneckshen with the histry uv these States hez become a part uv the histry uv the country and therefore in visitin Massachoosits under sich pekoolyer circumstances it is pekoolyerly gratifyin to reserve sich a welcome. In regard to yoor remarks tetchin the preservashen uv these States, I trust I may say without egotism, a vice which I hev never bin accused uv, and from which I may say no one is more singulery free than myself, I yield to no patriot livin or dead in my devoshen to that purpose. Yoor other remarks on that Rooshen purchis and the more economical collecshin uv the internal revenue also meets my corjel approbashen."

Randall pulled at his coat tale, when the President remarkt that he might say without egotism that he didn't desire to make a speech, and stopt! We brought him off in comparatively good order.

We stopt at the Tremont House. It is a good hotel, tho the waiters ought to be Aferkins. Its soothin to a troo Dimekrat to be waited on by a nigger. Yoo kin damn a nigger waiter, but put a white man in that posishen and yoo feel a delicacy about it. When we retired the President insisted that I shood sleep lyin across the doreway uv his room.

"Why?" asked I.

"I am in Boston," replied he, "wher they stun the prophets. Boston dislikes me. Boston hez to-day a smilin face, but wot kind uv a hart does that smilin face conceal? Sumner lives in Boston, and so does Philips—in Boston they elect niggers to the Legislagher, and are tryin to stop the sale uv whiskey. Wot kind uv a place is that for a Dimekratic President to trust hisself into? Yoo sleep across my doorway, and ef a band uv Ablishnists, deemin me their foe, shood strive to enter, they would have to flesh their daggers in yoor blood first. Meanwhile I wood escape. You cood, by preparin beforehand a few impressive last words, make a glorious death uv it, and do the coz good. For instance as Sumner stuck yoo, you cood gasp, "slay me, but spare A. J., the hope uv the Republic." Or, as Wilson struck you down with a bludgeon, you mite exclaim, "I die willinly for the Constitooshen with 36 stars onto it." Any little quotashen from any uv my speeches joodiciously thrown in, under sich circumstances, wood do good. Yoo will sleep ther to-night, and remember, in case you are called upon to die, the proper quotashens."

Seward concurred, but Randall objectid. He didn't anticipate any sich danger. Ef Boston wants to git rid uv the President they have a shorter way than assassinashen. Rash politishun only assassinate them wich they can't find cause to impeach. But he wuzn't afraid uv Boston. We stood a better chance uv dying uv excessive hospitality in Boston than uv bein stabbed. Our stomachs might protrude in Boston, but our bowels never. Boston wood feast us, for ther are enuff men in Boston who want posishen to keep us a goin a year or two. He feared dyspepsia more than daggers, and hed no fear uv the wine bein pizened.

Nevertheless, I wuz forst to sleep in that posishen, wich I did, wakin up in the mornin ez sore and stiff ez a plow hoss. I don't know now far the trip will be extended.

Riley, the Convict.—Riley, the convict, who escaped from Sheriff Gray, of Venango county, about two months since, by jumping from a steamboat in the Allegheny river, near Tarentum, heavily ironed, while being brought to the Western Penitentiary, in Allegheny City, it is rumored, has been seen at Lockport, New York. A large reward was offered by Sheriff Gray for his arrest.

Early Closing.—Mr. Wm. Semple, dry goods merchant, Nos. 180 and 182 Federal street, Allegheny, notifies his customers that after Friday next, the 5th inst., and until the first of September, his store will be open from seven o'clock A. M., until five P. M., excepting on Saturdays, when it will close at nine P. M. Thursday next, the Fourth of July, being our National holiday, the store will not be open. Customers will please bear this in mind.

First Ward Schools.—The School Board of the First Ward Public School, Pittsburgh, have elected the following teachers to serve for the ensuing term: Principal—George M. Monro. Grammar Department—Mary F. Eaton, Eliza Mason and Alice Patterson. Intermediate Department—Hannah J. Bell, Amanda McKinley and Bella Moffat. Primary Department—Carrie A. Carpenter, Emma J. Hemiup, Hattie Carter and Mary J. Cooper.

Stolen Goods Identified.—Messrs. Brilles & Bernstein, clothing dealers on Liberty street, this city, yesterday appeared at the Allegheny Mayor's office and identified a pair of fine pantaloons, which were found in the possession of the two boys, Carson and Bollman, who were arrested nearly two weeks since for burglary, but afterwards escaped, as having been stolen, among other goods, from their store one night about three weeks ago. No trace of the youthful burglars has yet been obtained.

Consumers of the genuine Swedish Dannemora iron will find in another column a notice from the old established firm of W. Jessop & Sons, 91 and 93 John street, N. Y., and 135 Federal street, Boston, stating that they have contracted with the manufacturer of the celebrated (I.) brand of that iron for the whole annual make, and that they are now prepared to receive orders for the iron as well as for blister and extra cast steel made from the iron, at either of their above named establishments.

Railroad Accident.—While the Westward bound freight train on the Pan Handle Railroad, which left the depot in this city about two o'clock on Monday afternoon, was passing over the trestle work near Saw Mill Run, some of the timbers gave way, but not to such an extent as to impede the progress of the train. None of the cars were thrown off the track or damaged in any way, and the necessary repairs on the track were at once pushed forward. The express train was delayed about two hours by the accident.

Base Ball.—A base ball match was played at Oakland on Monday afternoon, between the Dauntless, the champion junior club of Pittsburgh, and the Good Will club. The game was closely contested, and resulted in the success of the Good Will, the score standing: Good Will, 43; Dauntless, 40.

Boy Injured by a Fall.—A little boy by the name of Andrew Oatman, aged nine years, residing on Cherry alley, between Third and Fourth streets, met with a severe accident yesterday afternoon by his own daring and foolishness. Two brick houses stand close together in the alley, with a space of about two feet between them. He attempted to climb up between the houses by putting a hand and foot against each wall. He succeeded in climbing up to the second story in this manner, when he suddenly lost his foothold and fell to the ground, striking his head against the edge of a brick, and cutting a frightful gash across the forehead. He was taken into his parents' house, where his injuries were dressed.

Eighth Ward Public Schools.

The Board of School Directors of the Eighth Ward Public Schools met last evening, and re-elected the old corps of teachers to serve for the next term, as follows:

Ann Street School—Principal—Leopard H. Eaton. Grammar Department—Misses Mary D. Garvin, Eliza W. Lompree, Emma D. Wallace. Intermediate Department—Misses Chelinessa J. Bragdon, Alice J. Second Street School.—Grammar Department—Miss Mary L. Proudfoot. Intermediate Department—Mrs. Verbena Burns. Primary Department—Miss Annie M. Witter.

Accident in East Birmingham—Three Men Injured.

Yesterday morning a number of men were engaged in repairing a public sewer, on Carson street, East Birmingham. While excavating the earth from around the water main, the pipe broke, in consequence, as is supposed, of a flaw in the iron, and the water rushed out in immense volume, causing the sides of the sewer to fall in. Three men, named Mohan, Connell and Rogers, who were at work on the sewer, were unable to escape in time, and were considerably injured, Mohan being buried up to the neck in the falling earth, and was not extricated for nearly half an hour. He was severely injured on the back and limbs, while Connell and Rogers were also considerably injured. Several members of the Walton Hose Company hurried to the scene, and aided materially in releasing the men from their precarious position. The street and sewer were considerably damaged by the accident.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Court of Quarter Sessions.—Before Judge Mellon.

The jury in the case of James Maldoon, indicted for felonious assault and battery, in stabbing James McGoodin, on Overhill street, with a knife, rendered a verdict of not guilty of the felony charged, but guilty of misdemeanor, in unlawfully cutting and stabbing the prosecutor.

Lydia Timmony, a little girl aged thirteen years, plead guilty to the larceny of a pair of shoes, the property of Mrs. Elizabeth Brady, of the Fifth ward. The defendant was anxious to attend a picnic, but not having a pair of good shoes, concluded to appropriate a pair. The Court directed that she should be placed in the House of Refuge.

Orlando Bell, the proprietor of a tavern at Noblestown, was tried on two charges of illegal liquor selling—one for selling to minors and one for selling liquor on Sunday. Robert Simpson, the prosecutor, testified that whisky had been sold to boys, and also on Sunday. Other witnesses were examined, but the testimony being of a vague character, the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty, the prosecutor to pay the costs.

Catharine Leonard, indicted for selling liquor without license, entered a plea of guilty, and was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and costs.

John Hersh, jr., a lad aged about twelve years, was arraigned on two charges of assault and battery, preferred by Mrs. Mary Watkins. The parties reside in Birmingham, and the defendant was accused of abusing two of prosecutrix's children, by pushing them against a wall, and striking them with a rope. Jury out.

James McGoodin was next arraigned on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Jas. Muldoon. This action grew out of the difficulty on Overhill street, in which McGoodin was stabbed. McGoodin testified that on the evening of the 23d ult. he and defendant were together. They visited several saloons and drank eight times; when defendant said he could whip McGoodin, and knocked him down twice, when he (McGoodin) drew a knife and used it in self-defense. The witness stated that he was not in the habit of carrying dangerous weapons, but had a dirk knife in his possession at that time which had been given him by a young man named Wm. Wilson, to keep for him.

Several witnesses testified that the defendant bore a good character for peace. Officer Frank Campbell, of the Allegheny night police, was called on the part of the Commonwealth, and testified that McGoodin had been arrested in Allegheny some time since, on a charge of shooting at a man, but on cross-examination stated that after a hearing before Mayor Morrison he was discharged, the evidence not being sufficient to warrant his detention. The case had not been concluded at adjournment.

The Great National Festival.

The arrangements for the grand National Festival at Union Skating Park, Allegheny, which will commence to-morrow, are all completed, and such a festival of fun as it will be has never before been presented here. The balloons will all be filled to-day, and the ascensions will take place according to programme. The Union fountain will throw up thirty-six sparkling jets, and will present a beautiful appearance. Mr. Goodrich, the champion skater, arrived yesterday, and will display his skill on the floor skates, which will be a novel exhibition. Besides these attractions in the day time there will be others more amusing, including wheelbarrow races, sack races, etc., all combining to make a grand entertainment. In the evening, the exhibition of fireworks will take place, and, as it will surpass in extent and grandeur anything of the kind ever before attempted here, the ample enclosure will donotless be filled with an admiring audience.

Extra Train.—An extra train will leave the Connellsville Railroad depot at 5 o'clock, for Uniontown to-morrow morning, to give those an opportunity of attending the laying of the corner-stone of the Fayette County Soldiers' Monument who may desire to do so.

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

(Before Mayor McCarthy.)

ALLEGED LARCENY.

Lewis King was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing ten dollars from the residence of Leonard Ames, in Oakland township. The accused denied the charge, but upon being searched the missing money was found on his person. He then acknowledged to the larceny, and was held for trial.

"CRAZY DRUNK."

A man named John Ratrock was arrested on Monday evening for drunkenness and locked up in the watch-house. During the night he was seized with a frenzy, and beat the top of his head against the bars of the cell with such violence as to cut gashes in his scalp quite to the bone. In the morning he appeared quite calm, when the Mayor administered a lecture to him and permitted him to depart. His injuries were not considered serious.

(Before Mayor Morrison, of Allegheny.)

MALICIOUS FIREWORKS DISPLAY—A FIRE.

Mrs. Catharine West, residing in the Third Ward, Allegheny, yesterday appeared at the Mayor's office, and made an information against three persons named John Darby, Nicholas Kelsh and George Taylor, charging them with gross malicious mischief. Mrs. West, in her information, alleges that on Monday night the defendants maliciously shot some fire crackers through the windows of her house, and set fire to a bed. With the assistance of some neighbors and after considerable trouble, she succeeded in throwing the burning bed out of the window, thus saving the house from being destroyed by fire. Mrs. West also stated that the defendants shot fire crackers into three different hacks which passed her door. Warrants were issued for the arrest of the accused. This malicious shooting of fireworks is dangerous, and the parties engaged in it should meet with the severest penalty of the law.

BITTEN BY A DOG.

J. White lodged complaint against Chas. McChesney, for keeping a ferocious dog. The parties are neighbors and reside in the Second ward, Allegheny. While the deponent's little son was getting water at the hydrant in his father's yard yesterday morning, a dog belonging to the defendant, it is stated, jumped upon him and bit him quite severely. A warrant was issued.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Jerry Costlow was charged with committing an assault and battery on Kate Walters, who alleges that he attacked her in the Market House yesterday morning, kicking, beating and otherwise abusing her. A warrant for his arrest was placed in an officer's hands.

AN ALLEGED WIFE BEATER.

John Carlin was arrested on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by his wife, Mrs. Fanny Carlin. Mrs. Carlin states that her husband has been constantly under the influence of liquor for a long time past, and she has, by hard toil been compelled to keep him. On the 29th inst., he came home intoxicated, and while she was passing across the room in which he was sitting, he, it is alleged, sprang to his feet and dealt her a violent kick on the side, knocking her down and taking the breath from her for a few moments, and she is still somewhat ill from the assault. She further stated that she was constantly in fear of him, and therefore desired that he be arrested. He was held for a hearing.

NUISANCE.

Samuel Moorhead was charged with maintaining a nuisance on oath of Robert Thompson. Defendant resides in the Second ward, and was charged with keeping a pig pen on his premises, from which arises an unpleasant odor, much to the annoyance of the neighborhood. Warrant issued.

WIFE DESERTION.

Mrs. Sarah Thompson charged her husband, Wm. S. Thompson with desertion, alleging that he abandoned her some time since, and has refused to provide or contribute to her support. A hearing has not yet been had in the case.

DISORDERLY ON THE CARS.

Jesse Hilterbrand, conductor of one of the cars on the Manchester Passenger Railway, charged a man named Aiken with acting very disorderly on the car on Monday. At the hearing, however, the charge was not established and the case was settled.

BEAT HIS WIFE.

Patrick Campbell, who resides on Rebecca street, in the First ward, Allegheny, was arrested by officer Nixon for beating his wife. The wife refused to prosecute him for assault and battery, and Mr. P. Savage had him arrested for disorderly conduct. Campbell being intoxicated, was locked up until this morning, when he will have a hearing.

ABANDONED HIS WIFE.

Mr. Matthias McGonuigle, of Allegheny, lodged an information against Leonard Sharp, for deserting his wife, leaving her in penury, and thereby rendering her a burden on the county. The accused was arrested, and confessed to having done nothing for the support of his wife. He said, however, that he had tried in every possible way to obtain work but in vain, and so could not support his wife. He was held for a hearing.

ARRESTED.

Hugh McHugh, who was charged with committing an assault and battery on his wife, Mrs. Rosanna McHugh, was arrested yesterday and committed to the lock-up for a hearing.

(Before Alderman Strain.)

FORCIBLE ENTRY AND DETAINER.

Bessie Allen and Jane Allen were before this Alderman yesterday, charged, on oath of Jane Leech, with forcible entry and detainer. The parties occupy the same house on Third street, in the Second Ward, and the defendants, in order to get rid of the prosecutrix, it is alleged, removed all her furniture into the street, and refused to allow her to return. The accused were arrested, and a hearing had in the case yesterday afternoon. The charge was not sustained, and the case was dismissed.

Public Amusements.

Opera House.—The "Naiad Queen," notwithstanding the heat, is a success, and attracts large audiences to the Opera House. The transformation scene, at the close of the play, is a beautiful affair, and is received nightly with rounds of applause. The "Naiad Queen" will be presented again this evening. There will be two exhibitions at the Opera House to-morrow—afternoon and evening. Friday evening Annie Sefton will take her farewell benefit, and on Saturday evening the inimitable Sefton will take his benefit, on both of which occasions attractive bills will be presented.

From an Editor.

We copy the following highly complimentary editorial from the Jamestown Journal in behalf of Dr. Aborn, the distinguished Physician and Surgeon for diseases of the Eye, Ear, Head, Throat and Organs of the Chest, who has opened Medical and Surgical rooms, 154 Smithfield street. The editor says: It is well known we never have been "up" to commending traveling physicians; we have rather been considered unduly hostile to them. It is because we have considered them as empyrics, generally. We think Dr. E. S. Aborn is an exception to the general rule. We think so for the reason that his testimonials are so strong and flattering, from persons so high in society and so near and accessible to reference, that they are unimpeachable and convincing as to his professional skill and success. We think so, because Dr. A., appears to be a gentleman of intelligence, culture, candor and responsibility. Therefore, we venture to step aside from our custom and commend him to all who come under his speciality for treatment—diseases of the head and chest.

Phlebotomy.

When Dr. Sangrado found his patients weak he gave them water gruel. When they got weaker he bled them and dosed them with calomel and jalap. Gil Blas tells us they almost invariably died. A good many people are killed that way yet. The world in general, however, has found out that, in cases of debility and premature decay, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is the true life-sustaining cordial. This tonic is a powerful and perfectly harmless restorative. But it does more than invigorate. It regulates and purifies. While it builds up the strength and infuses vitality into the blood, it brings all the secretions into harmony with the laws of health. The feebler sex find it invaluable in the various physical difficulties to which their organization renders them subject. In all hysterical and hypochondrical cases its effect is magical. The infirmities of age are alleviated by its use; and where the circulation is torpid, and there is a tendency to paralysis, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are recommended as a means of re-invigorating the system and prolonging life.

At this season of the year, particularly, when mid-summer's scorching heat does so much towards reducing the vital energies of the body, this inestimable tonic and stomachic produces a wonderful effect. By it the strength is increased, the appetite preserved, and firmness and elasticity given to the system.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Tuesday Evening, July 2, 1867.

Erasing from the statute books laws which have become odious to the more enlightened and progressive spirit of the age, has of late engrossed the attention of many of the State Legislatures. Laws which have become a dead letter and more honored in the breach than in their observance; such as the usury laws have become particularly objectionable, and are now regarded as relics of barbarism, and totally repugnant to the sound practical sense of the present age. The New England States which have always been more tenacious of the old fashioned laws, like the law of usury, are now taking the lead and recognizing the progress of the times, some of them have repealed or relaxed materially the rigor of these enactments. Rhode Island has erased her severe statute against what is termed usury, and Connecticut has twice modeled hers, and Massachusetts notwithstanding her Puritanic fastidiousness, at the last session of her legislature made a clean sweep in the same direction. But for the religious cant given to the law this relic of barbarism would have long ago been consigned to oblivion. The word usury, as mentioned in the Bible, has been understood in many parts of New England, as referring to the taking of more than six per cent. interest a year for the loan of money. In Pennsylvania many excellent people suppose that the receipt of more than six per cent. annual interest is forbidden in the Scriptures, but that up to that rate the exaction is justified in Holy writ. The truth is that one per cent. per annum is just as much usury in the Bible sense as ten per cent.

Usury in the Scriptures means the same as interest. The Jews were forbidden to take any usury, that is any interest, from their brethren, the object of the requirement being simply to cultivate fraternal sympathy and neighborly kindness, and to induce them to help the needy of their own nation without the hope of gain thereby. Of strangers they were commanded to take usury. Any interest taken for the use of money, therefore, from a brother Israelite was a violation of their restriction. This has no application to the present usury laws. The spirit of true religion is against all severe exactions from the poor, or any other of our fellow-men; but it applies as well to the price of eggs and butter as to the interest of money, and all attempts to regulate such prices by law will either be disregarded to the injury of public morals, or if obeyed, work far more injustice than they could prevent.

—The Philadelphia Ledger says: Next to the Government loans the most desirable investment security is the new 6 per cent. loan of this State, and well are they entitled to this favorable position among the solid securities. They are not likely, however, to long remain active on the market. On the 15th ultimo there remained uncollected by the holders about $13,000,000 of the old State 5s, most of which is notified by the State Treasurer to be paid off on the 1st and 15th of next month (August), after which date the interest will cease. Since the 15th ult., something less than $2,000,000 of the loan has been converted, leaving $11,000,000 yet outstanding. The new 6 per cent. loan is selling freely at 101½ for the first series, and at 102½ for the third series. The second series are not on the market, all having been sold by the parties who took them. We are now informed that less than five millions are still unsold of the other series, and as there are still eleven millions of the old loan to be paid off, which is mostly held by trustees, it is evident that all cannot reinvest in the same security; so that in cases where trustees are obliged to reinvest in the same security, it will be seen that prompt action is necessary, else holders may find themselves too late, or be obliged to pay higher prices than the loans are now offered at.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

Office of the Pittsburgh Commercial, Tuesday Evening, July 2, 1867.

The general markets, to-day, presented no new feature from those we have reported in the last two issues of this paper. Trade in nearly all branches is very dull. Merchants, however, do not look for any revival until after harvest. The crops are very promising in all directions. New flour has made its appearance in the market, the first consignment of five barrels, from Nashville, to Isaiah Dickey & Co. The same firm will receive a large lot in a few days. Flour, to-day, was very active. Groceries were also active. Bacon is in fair request. In regard to other articles we have no remarks to make worthy of special comment, excepting the old fact that they are very dull.

We quote as follows, which are the wholesale store prices, unless otherwise noted:

Apples—Old apples are about out of market. A choice article would command $10 00 ₩ bbl. New Eastern apples are arriving and selling at $6 50@7 00 ₩ bbl.

Butter—A great deal of the butter received is in bad order and hardly saleable at any price. A choice article of fresh roll, in good order, is in good demand at 15@17c ₩ lb.

Bacon—The trade doing is fair. We quote as follows: S. C. Hams 18c; S. C. Shoulders 12½c, and plain shoulders 9½c ₩ lb.

Beans—Choice small white beans are nearly out of market and find a ready sale at $3 25 ₩ bushel.

Cheese—The receipts have been quite liberal and prices have declined considerably of late. Sales of Western Reserve were made at 12@13c; Goshen at 15@16c; Hamburg at 15@16c, and Switzer at 17c ₩ lb.

Dried Fruits—Market very dull. Peaches may be quoted slow of sale at 9@12c, and apples at 6@8c ₩ lb.

Eggs—The receipts have been about equal to the demand, and prices remain as last quoted, viz: 18c ₩ dozen.

Flour—The market was extremely active and prices unchanged. We quote spring ranging from $10 to $12, and an occasional small sale at $12 25, and winter at $12 50@13 50 ₩ bbl. Yesterday the first receipt of 5 bbls flour, from the new crop of Tennessee, was received by Isaiah Dickey & Co. This flour was manufactured by D. D. Dickey, Nashville, Tenn., and is pronounced by judges as a very superior article. This firm have now on the way 75 bbls of the same quality, and it is expected to arrive the latter part of this week. The sample is open for inspection to any person who will call at the house on Water street.

Corn Meal—Market not very active. We quote at 90c@$1 00 ₩ bush.

Rye Flour—We quote at $8 ₩ bbl.

Corn—Market continues dull. Holders are asking 90@92c ₩ bushel, but buyers are not offering more than 85@90c ₩ bushel. There is not much coming in.

Oats—Sales from store were made at 68@70c ₩ bushel, and from depot at 65@66c ₩ bushel.

Wheat—There has been nothing doing in wheat for a long time past, and we consequently omit quotations, which are nominal.

Rye—Sales of small lots were made at $1 15@1 25 ₩ bush. There is very little doing.

Buckwheat—Sales of seed buckwheat are making in small lots at $2 25@2 50 ₩ bushel.

Hay—Under large receipts per country wagons prices have declined. We note sales at the city scales at $16@19 ₩ ton.

Potatoes—From store we quote peach blows selling at $1 10@1 20 ₩ bush and not very active. New eastern potatoes are selling at $6 ₩ bbl.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

Office of the Pittsburgh Commercial, Wednesday, July 3, 1867.

Business yesterday was active. Dispatches were received announcing an advance in the European markets, which produced considerable activity among dealers. Holders at once advanced their prices in both crude and refined; on the latter fully 1c ₩ gallon. The stock of crude on hand is not very large. Yesterday's transactions reached 3,500 bbls, as follows: 2,000 bbls tank oil, at Manchester, at 6½c. This sale can hardly be taken as a fair criterion of the market for spot oil, as the cost of conveying it to this city would reach ½c ₩ gallon. Sales of 1,500 bbls bulk at 7c, deliverable the first water, the buyers advancing $1 00 ₩ bbl to secure the contract. Other lots were under negotiation, and will probably be consummated during the day.

Refined Oil.—The market to-day was very firm, with an advance of 1c ₩ gallon, the European dispatches being considered very favorable. The Antwerp quotations were 41 francs, being an advance of 2 francs. The sales that came under our notice were 1,000 bbls of standard white, Philadelphia, during 1867, buyers' option, at 27c; 1,000 bbls do, August, 26c; 1,000 bbls do, July, sellers' option, 25½c; 6,000 bbls deliverable from July to December, 1,000 bbls per month, 28c. Sales 1,000 bbls standard white free on cars here, in 500 bbl lots, at 20c ₩ gallon, being an advance of 1c ₩ gallon since the previous day.

Oil City Oil Report

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.
Oil City, July 2, 1867.
Petroleum somewhat weaker, but sellers are holding firm at the advanced rate. We quote sales to-day of five hundred barrels at $1 88; also, sales five hundred barrels at $1 90 delivered here. Rather more active inquiry to-day, but buyers seem disinclined to purchase at the asking prices.

WOOL MARKET.

Office of the Pittsburgh Commercial, Tuesday Evening, July 2, 1867.

In various parts of the country, as will be seen by the extracts from our exchanges, Wool is selling to note in prices, and no disposition on the part of dealers to pay higher prices, but on the contrary, to use greater caution and discrimination in their purchases. We quote coarse fleece and tub washed wool at 40@42c; medium wools 40@45c; fine wools 45@50c, and selling pretty freely. In this locality we have no change in clips 50c. In Ohio prices are not so high as these quotations, and through some of the Western States considerable purchases of good clean wools are making at 30@40c. These wools are now on their way to the Eastern cities and will soon be ready to meet the market.

The Sandusky, Ohio, Register says: The Hollenders of Ottawa county were over en masse yesterday, and sold C. C. Keech 7,000 lbs of wool, at forty-five cents ₩ lb, and all the ice water they could drink. A mighty little water! thinking of three short years ago, when they got one dollar a pound, and all the lager and bread and cheese they wanted—a pile. It made some of them grumble. But the old philosophers among them, said to themselves, "such is life."

The Steubenville Herald says: The wool market of this city and vicinity has not opened very brisk. We hear, however, of some encouraging sales. We learn to-day that Joseph McCune, of Warren township, has sold his clip for fifty-two cents per pound. Over the river, in Brooke county, West Virginia, wool appears to command better figures. Richard Ridgeley got, for an extra clip, a fraction over ninety cents per pound, while other wool growers have been offered, so we have been assured, from sixty-five to seventy cents per pound. Figures do not rule so high in Steubenville. A considerable amount of wool has been purchased at fifty cents.

The McConnellsville, O., Herald says: Several lots have been sold here at from 45@50c ₩ lb, and these prices are so far prevailing all over the State. What wool may be worth a month hence no one can tell—but it strikes me that the best thing our wool-growers here could do would be to club together and start a woolen-mill and by so doing get all the profit there is in the wool business.

The Columbus, Ohio, Journal says: We have made many inquiries in reference to the wool market in Columbus, but find that nothing is being done in that line. Buyers offer from 35 to 40 cents ₩ lb, but growers ask 50 cents. It will probably be some days from these figures that it will probably be some days before buyers and sellers can agree upon prices. There was one buyer in the market a few days since offering as high as 45 cents, but he soon abandoned it.

MICHIGAN MARKETS.

The Republican says: The market has undergone no material change. On Thursday 47@48c was paid at Kalamazoo, which is the center of a region where fine wool abounds. The same figures were paid the same day at Dowagiac. Niles and Mt. Clemens, there being considerable competition at the last named place. At Owosso and Lansing 48c was paid for best; but at St. Johns, Saranac, Lowell, and other points in the northerly portions of the State, 40c is the highest figure. In the major portions of the towns in Southern Michigan, 40c is generally regarded as about the highest, although very choice clips always command a little more.

We learn from Grand Rapids, Owosso, St. Johns, and other points on the Detroit and Milwaukee Railroad, 35@40c is about the range. At Owosso the purchase of 5,000 lbs is reported by one dealer; average 38½c.

Lapeer, 26th.—Wool comes in very slowly, and does not reach a higher figure than 40c. Many farmers, both here and in the eastern part of the county, will hold their clips unless better figures can be had.

Lansing, 26th.—The market for wool in Lansing has but just opened, and but little has been bought. F. M. Cowles has bought 2,000 lbs at an average price of 43c. Ford & Wells have purchased 1,000 lbs at 40c. H. A. Ives has bought 2,500 lbs at an average of 39½c. Merrifield & Weller, who have been among the buyers in the city for several years, have received no money from parties for whom they act as agents.

The stock of wool is not large in the Eastern market, but the manufacturers are slow to buy from the fact that they have large amounts of manufactured goods on hand, while there is but little call for woolen goods. In the present state of the money market our advice to farmers is to sell their clips within the next two months.

BOSTON, MASS.

The wool market, says the Bulletin, has been fairly active during the past week, and buyers have exhibited considerable pluck and nerve in the adverse circumstances of the situation. The transactions, however, have been mostly at low rates, and dealers, with their stocks of domestic fleece nearly closed out, are disposed to allow prices to gradually settle down, in view of the prospective moderate rates at which the new clip is expected to open.

In fact, the amount of desirable wool now remaining upon the Eastern markets is very small, and some grades wanted for immediate use, and such as choice fleece and choice lots of double extra and picklock, are wholly deficient. The new clip comes along very slowly, and will not be available to any extent for two or three weeks to come, at least. In the meantime manufacturers, who are generally worked close up on material, must have something to bridge over with, and they prefer buying old wool, if it can be had at reasonable rates, rather than to send agents into the country for new. Hence, several large consumers have come in during the past week and bought liberally wherever they could find parcels adapted to their requirements.

The bulk of old wool remaining in the hands of the trade, however, consists of heavy New York, Vermont and New Hampshire fleeces, of the medium and three-quarter blood grades. These are not much wanted for present use, and can only be sold at a liberal concession. Very little low western or choice Ohio and Pennsylvania is to be had, and these command relatively high rates. For the latter, the better grades of pulled wool are being substituted to a considerable extent; and, as a consequence, the supply of good supers and extras has been much reduced, and these descriptions are likely to run short before the next pulling season.

But the scarcity of strictly fine domestic fleece wool, aggravated as it is by the virtual exclusion of the corresponding grades of foreign, will compel a certain class of consumers to take hold of the new clip before long. We learn that already some manufacturers of fine goods have dispatched agents to Eastern Pennsylvania and Western Virginia, who are buying up fancy clips, suited to the production of their specialities, at prices relatively higher than could be realized in the Eastern markets. This is certainly bad policy, and should be avoided as far as possible.

It cannot be for the advantage of either grower or consumer, to start the new clip at prices which are not warranted by the condition of the goods market. The prices made in the markets of actual consumption are the only true criterion of the commercial value of wool; and any line of conduct which stimulates country prices above these can only result in disappointment and loss.

Sales of domestic for the week have been quite liberal, all things considered, and foot up some 700,000 lbs at a range of 33½@70c for fleece, and 37½@62½c for the various grades of pulled. Included are 30,000 lbs extra Ohio fleece at 60@61c; 10,000 lbs fine do at 55c; 25,000 lbs fine Ohio and Pennsylvania, in lots, at a range of 60@70c, the outside rate for double extra; 1,000 lbs unwashed Ohio, 25c; 1,500 lbs fine do, 35c; 15,000 lbs extra do, 52c; 2,000 lbs fine do, 50c; 1,500 lbs do do, 50c; 1,000 lbs extra do, 62c; 3,500 lbs medium do, 54c; 4,000 lbs scoured do, 68c; 7,000 lbs fine Michigan, 56c.

In pulled wools there have been considerable sales. Included are 2,500 lbs Western super, 41c; 4,000 lbs do, extra, 52c; 1,000 lbs super, 47c; 1,500 lbs Wisconsin extra, 57½c; 4,000 lbs Ohio super, 48c; 1,500 lbs Eastern extra, 58c; 4,000 lbs do do, 57c; 1,000 lbs double extra, 62c; 6,000 lbs Western extra, 50c; 2,000 lbs super, 45c; 3,000 lbs do do, 45c; 2,000 lbs Eastern super, 50c; 10,000 lbs Philadelphia No. 1, 46c; 2,000 lbs Western extra, 52½c; 2,000 lbs do do, 51½c; 3,000 lbs Eastern do, 55c; 3,000 lbs Canada super, 52c; 6,000 lbs Western extra, 50c; 2,000 do No. 1, 45c; 7,000 lbs extra, 50c; 6,000 lbs Lambs, 41c; 9,000 lbs Eastern extra, 50c.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

CHICAGO.

The past week has been one of the dullest and most unsatisfactory, to cattle drovers, of any one since Chicago became famous as a mart for live stock. Large receipts and discouraging advices compelled drovers to submit to a further reduction of 50@75c ₩ 100 lbs, and even this liberal concession failed to induce active movement. Holders, in most instances, says the Tribune, were but too glad to realize, even at the low prices offered; discovering nothing in the immediate future to justify the belief that next week would inaugurate any material improvement. But others were more hopeful, and such herded their stock on the prairies, adjacent to the yards, where they declare it to be their intention to hold it until the market assumes a more favorable character, which, from present appearances, is a rather indefinite period. Nothing, it would seem, but a favorable reaction in the New York market can stay the downward tide, and from the large amount of stock reported en route to that point, there is hardly the "skeleton" of a hope that any improvement will be realized. While we would not urge farmers to rush forward everything of the bovine species, we are, from all the facts we can gather, firmly convinced that holders of marketable stock will not be profited by withholding it. The offerings the past week have not been of a high order, though perhaps comparing favorably in this particular with any of the half dozen weeks preceding this. The receipts have not been large, but, as the result has proven, considerably in excess of the demand, as some 2,000 head have either been sent East, in first hands, or turned out on the prairies to await a better market. The different classes of buyers have been well represented, and the offerings have been pretty evenly divided between shippers, city butchers and feeders. The character of the demand does not differ in any essential particular from that noted in our last weekly review. Good first and second-class steers, suited to the wants of the New York, Boston and Albany markets, and good fat cows and light fleshy steers, on local account, and for the markets of Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, have been the grades to which the inquiry was chiefly confined. Common and "scallawag" cows, rough, half-fattened steers, coarse, "bony" oxen, stags, bulls and light heifers, were neglected and unsalable, except at prices ruinous to sellers. Such should be kept in the pastures until fed up to a marketable condition. On Saturday the market was inactive, but nominally 25c lower, making the decline, during the week, fully 75c@$1 00 ₩ 100 lbs. The market closes dull with a further decline in prospect. The following were the

CLOSING PRICES.

Tobacco in Kentucky.

The New Albany Ledger of Wednesday evening says: A Kentucky planter, who came up yesterday on the Morning Star, informs us that the growing tobacco crop in Kentucky is very promising. Owing to the cold and backward spring the planters were delayed in putting in their crops, but the warm and fine weather of the past two or three weeks has caused the plants to grow rapidly, and a good crop is confidently expected.

The River and Matters Along the Wharf.—The weather continues excessively warm. Business on the lower landing is suspended for the present. The water being too low for navigable purposes, boats have all laid up—most of them will rest until the opening of navigation in the fall. They will have ample time to fit up and make any improvements that may suggest themselves. On the slackwater the packets of both lines are still making regular trips. The people on this route are certainly accommodated to the largest extent—whether the boats have made any money is another matter.

The steamer Deer Lodge passed St. Joseph on Saturday on her second mountain trip this season.

The Great Republic is announced to leave St. Louis for New Orleans on Thursday, July 4th.

Navigation in the Cumberland is becoming very difficult, with thirty inches on the shoals.

The steamer Importer is reported aground at Buffington Island.

The steamer Armadillo passed Cairo on Saturday en route for St. Louis. All right.

The river between Cincinnati and Louisville is fast approaching low water, with only five feet water on Rising Sun bar.

New wheat is arriving at St. Louis. The steamer Belle St. Louis arrived at that port on Saturday with 300 sacks.

The Miner, a Pittsburgh built steamer, was announced to leave St. Louis on Saturday, on her second mountain trip this season.

The towboat Wild Duck and model barges received 800 barrels cement at Louisville for St. Louis.

The steamer St. Charles, Captain H. Campbell, on her last trip up beat the time of the Richmond from New Orleans to Red River one hour and a half.

Steamer Advance Raised.—The Evansville Sun has the following: Capt. Lancaster's steamer Advance, which was sunk near Terre Haute some weeks ago, arrived at our wharf yesterday evening, all right again.

Steamer Raised.—The Virginia No. 2, sunk at Mobile a few days ago, has been raised and taken to the dry dock to undergo repairs. The loss occasioned by this accident, it is thought, will amount to $2,500.

Captain Jim Forske has been presented, by Captain Hugh Campbell, of the famous St. Charles, with a "corrick head river." Jim is proud of it.—Louisville Democrat.

Jim has a right to feel proud. He will never have an opportunity of presenting one to a better man.

Pomeroy, O., June 29.—The river continues to fall slowly. No boats passed up to-day. The Edinburgh got up as far as Blennerhassett Island, where she broke some of her timbers, unloaded her cargo, and is here now on her way to Cincinnati to go on the docks.

Appropriate.—A prominent merchant of St. Louis has suggested that it would be eminently just and proper for the citizens of St. Louis to present the steamer Ruth with a testimonial in reward for her exploit in outrunning the swift steamer Richmond, and making a very remarkably fast trip from New Orleans to St. Louis.

New Ferry Boat.—Captain George S. Weeks has the contract for building a steamer for the Eagle Point Ferry Company. The steamer will be a large one—one hundred and ten feet in length by twenty-two feet beam. She will be ready for service by the middle of September. Her machinery, boilers, &c., will all be manufactured in Dubuque.

Another Flood at Dubuque.—The following from the Dubuque Herald of the 27th need create no uneasiness: From St. Paul reports come of another rise, and preparations were being made for a flood. A dispatch from St. Cloud, received just as the Davenport left for St. Paul, announced another big freshet coming.

The Cincinnati Gazette has the following special from Pittsburgh: "Side wheel steamers in the Monongahela drawn off and light draughts substituted." This is certainly news—up here. The following side wheel boats are still running: Elector, Capt. Phillips; Chieftain, Capt. Hendrickson; Gallatin, Capt. Carlisle.

Capt. Harry G. McComas, well known in steamboat circles, has abandoned the river, and is about opening the Marble City Hotel at Cape Girardeau. We are told that the new hotel is furnished most splendidly with new furniture, bedding and tinware, and will eclipse anything ever before attempted at the Cape. We extend Capt. Harry our best wishes, and prophesy that "as a feedist he will be a success."

No Horns Wanted.—From a somewhat ambiguous communication in the New Madrid, Missouri, Record, of the 22d, we gather that Captain Dan Musselman, of the Belle Memphis, had rejected with scorn an "elegant pair of horns presented to him by the citizens of New Madrid for his daring attempt to beat the time of the Robert E. Lee to Cairo," because the balls on the ends of the horns were not gilded.

We clip the following account of a generous action from the Dubuque Times:

Just after the Sucker State left St. Louis on her present trip, a man named Jones, from Shawneetown, Ill., fell overboard and was drowned. His body could not be recovered, and as he had all his money with him, his wife and children on board the boat were left with nothing but the stock and furniture, with which their protector intended to commence a new life on a Minnesota farm. Capt. W. P. Hight went among the passengers and stated the circumstances of the widow and orphan, and raised $34 50 for them. He returned the widow the money her late husband had paid for passage tickets, and carried herself and child, with their freight, to Minnesota, free of charge.

Sunday's Louisville Democrat on the situation: During the past week our city wharf has presented a dull and monotonous appearance. Boats have got tired laying here doing nothing, and have gone off to rusticate at the "bone-yard." The captains have been out of business so long that some of them have forgotten which boat they belong to. Business has been very dull. Quite a number of the regular packets have laid up, and our New Orleans boats—one by one—are coming in to "choke a ringbolt." The wharf is now occupied as a landing for rafts, salt and hay boats. The wharf affords a dry spot for boys to "shed their linen" and the river is used by the water works, and the boys who go in swimming, if they don't stick in the mud or strike a rock. Verily, it is hard times among steamboat-men. Take it easy, gentlemen.

Sucker State Ahead.—The Dubuque Herald of Saturday says: "The great event of the season to river men was the race between the Sucker State and the Phil. Sheridan, both of which left Saint Louis together Wednesday afternoon, and kept along together up to Davenport, where the Sheridan was left. The Sucker State came in at noon yesterday with brooms all over her, denoting that a victory had been won, and made the quickest time on record from St. Louis—forty-four hours and five minutes, and put out quickly, intending to overtake the Key City at Prairie du Chien and beat her to Saint Paul. She passed the Hawkeye coming up, which boat left Saint Louis the day before. The Sheridan arrived last evening about eight o'clock, just eight hours behind the Sucker State. The 'race horse' has been shorn of his laurels, and is no match for his victorious rival."

The Richmond and the Ruth.

Incidental upon the recent race between these boats, the partisan journals of each craft are fighting it out on an india rubber line, which they stretch to suit conscientious and unconscientious dictations. The Memphis Avalanche reporter favored the steamer whose name is significant of the recent rebellion. He confesses to having lost several new hats. The Bulletin, of the same place, before the Richmond "came to town," was loud in her praise, but mysteriously and unaccountably, perhaps, deserted her for the Great Republic. His judgment lead him to infer the Ruth was doing work and would "do" the Richmond before reaching Cairo. He is jubilant and the Avalanche isn't. The Ruth was built at Jeffersonville and New Albany, but is trading from St. Louis south to New Orleans. The Richmond was built at Madison, and journeys south from Louisville, or rather from Portland. The Journal, Democrat and Courier were extremely enthusiastic in her praise before she was completed, and prophesied of her great things. River reporters and steamboats elsewhere were amazed at what this new wonder—greater than the proverbial seven—was going to do, and seemed to harbor the idea that

A streak of lightning, freed from sky,
Would never win a heat,
As her low-pressure ma-chin-e-ry
Had more than lightning's feet.

The Madison Courier set up its claims, as the boat was built there, but its weak voice was drowned in the overwhelming laudations of the Falls City journals, and thereupon the Courier was content to slip in a word now and then. Like the Memphis Bulletin, the praise of the Richmond, mysteriously and unaccountably, perhaps, was superseded in the Democrat, by mere mention—the Journal holding on to a half-and-half course—while the Louisville Courier was the acknowledged champion of the wonder.

We knew her machinery was taken from the Jacob Strader, a Cincinnati built boat, and heard that as much of the cabin of the Strader as could be used was worked in her cabin, but we preferred being one of the amazed.

Well might Bro. Watts exclaim:

"Oh what a slender thread
Hang everlasting things."

If the Ruth had only remained at New Orleans one day longer, the Louisville Courier and the St. Louis journals would not now be fighting it out: the Memphis Avalanche would be richer and the Bulletin wouldn't; the Richmond would possess its paper superiority, and all would be quiet on the Potomac.—Cincinnati Gazette.
